SUMMARY.

An Austrian official message claims that the Austrians have occupied Gorizia, and that the Italians have withdrawn across the Isonzo.

A German official message confirms this information, and adds that the prisoners now number 80,000, with 600 guns.

War correspondents state that German troops and transports have for weeks been pouring to the Italian front.

An Italian message attributes the reverse chiefly to the failure of units of the Second Army to make sufficient resistance.

These units, the message says, are "retiring in cowardice or surrendering without fighting."

In consequence of this, the enemy penetrated the left wing of the Julian front.

Valiant efforts on the part of the other troops were unable to prevent the enemy from advancing into "Italy's sacred soil."

The Italian command states that it is withdrawing the line according to plan, and destroying stores and depots.

Field Marshal Haig reports that the British have slightly improved their positions in the neighbourhood of the Ypres-Roulers railway.

A French communique reports that fresh progress has been made on the Aisne front from Chevrigny.

The French, on both sides of the Ypres-Dixmude road, carried all the German positions on a front of four kilometres.

Despite the stubborn resistance of the enemy, they reached the western border of Houthulst Forest, and carried villages.

A German message says: "The enemy re-attacked south-westward of Houthulst Wood without gaining ayn greater advantage."

A number of battalions of American troops are now in the front line trenches on the western front.

American artillery has already been in action, and has shelled German positions.

The Belgians on Friday night made a successful raid northward of Dixmude.

An Admiralty report states that the naval air service on Friday bombed Lichtervelde railway junction.

New important disclosures of secret German activities and of Swedish-German collusion are expected.

The United States Liberty Loan has been an overwhelming success.

The subscriptions from the New York district alone totalled more than £500,000,000.

It is reported the ex-Czar will soon visit the United States, en route for England, where he has been guaranteed an asylum.

The Premier (Mr. Holman) is expected to return to Sydney to-day from his tour abroad.

The Lieutenant-Governor (Sir William Cullen) made an inspection of Liverpool camp yesterday.

A conference of Federal and State Ministers is to be held shortly to discuss labour legislation and conditions.

The Victorian Premier proposes to call a conference of employers and employees shortly to discuss industrial conditions.

The Melbourne coal lumpers yesterday expressed willingness to return to work on conditions satisfactory to the employers.

The men have agreed to work with the volunteers, whose services have been retained.

It was decided that a deputation submit the resolutions carried to the Minister for Defence.

The annual convention of the Federal Master Bakers' Association protested yesterday against price fixing.

A largely attended public meeting, under the auspices of the Anti-German League, was held in the Town Hall yesterday.

Sir Joseph Carruthers demanded a more vigorous policy against Germans and German sympathisers in Australia.

A motion by Mr. Oakes, with the object of combating the activities of enemy agents in our midst, was carried.

Sir William Irvine has intimated that he hopes to attend the inaugural meeting of the referendum petition committee this week.

A strike has occurred among butchers in Hobart, arising indirectly out of the high prices of meat.

They declare that new methods introduced by the auctioneers run up stock to an unfair value.

The annual meeting of the Royal Shipwreck Relief and Humane Society was held at the Town Hall last night.

Sir William Cullen, who presided, said that those who sank ships without warning were not men, but fiends.

The same things would happen on this coast but for the unsleeping vigilance of the navy.

Mr. James (Minister for Education) and the Lord Mayor (Alderman Meagher) paid tributes to the navy and the mercantile service.

The 247th official list of casualties amongst officers and men of the Australian forces abroad was issued yesterday.

Of the 863 names on the list, 672 have been wounded and 90 had died of wounds.

The Shipbuilding Trades' Federation in Victoria is urging Mr. Hughes to go on with his shipbuilding scheme.

It is pointed out that the great majority of the Victorian unions have practically adopted Mr. Hughes's proposals.

The shipping dispute in New Zealand has been settled, and vessels are gradually resuming their running.

The Salvation Army's self-denial work in New Zealand realised £38,000.

Mr. P. C. Webb, a member of the New Zealand Parliament, has unsuccessfully appealed against being called up for active service.

Professor Macintyre, chairman of the State Recruiting Committee, yesterday pointed out the urgent need for more recruits.

Australia was not, he declared, supplying 50 per cent. of its quota at the present time.

New Zealand was, he said, actually sending more men to the front as reinforcements than the whole of Australia.

Mr. Leckie, chairman of the Victorian Recruiting Committee, considers it would be unwise to push forward the recruiting issue.

Under the most favourable circumstances a Conscription Bill could not be put through Parliament before the end of January.

The referendum would take at least two months and the drafting of the men into camp another month.

That meant that the men, if conscription were carried, could not be in camp before May of next year.

The effect of a conscription campaign would be to greatly diminish the flow of voluntary recruiting during the campaign.

Mr. Beeby, Minister for Labour, quoted figures yesterday showing that the wage standard was higher in America than in Australia.

The appeal of Percival Brookfield, M.L.A., against his conviction for making statements likely to prejudice recruiting was dismissed.

A meeting at Broken Hill, called by the Political Labour League, urged that further provision be made to relieve distress there.

The level of the Murray at Echuca is now 32ft 1in, or 3ft above the flooding stage.

A new baby clinic has been opened at Paddington. The number of clinics is now 13.

Butter was well supplied in Sussex-street yesterday. Potatoes were £1 per ton cheaper. The top price was £10.

Heavy orders were placed for new-laid eggs yesterday. They sold at 10½d to 11d per dozen.

A parcel of 2700 cases of American apples has arrived. The fruit will be placed on the market on Thursday.

The jute market was quiet yesterday. Branbags were sold at 8s 9d net to rails.

Cornsacks were quoted at 9s 6d to storekeepers and 10s to users, net to rails.

A healthy tone pervaded operations on the investment market yesterday, and firm prices ruled.

Forecast.—Fine generally, except for showers along the southern coast and highlands; cool and squally southerly winds.

OUR NEW CREATION.

Our latest creation is the greatest of all Photographs. It carries all before it, and is better than all the best of the past.

It cannot be approached for ART, STYLE, or EFFECT.

It is chaste in design, harmonious in the blending of complementary tints, and is of distinctive merit.

For Black and White Photos. it is a creation in greys, while for Sepia Portraits it is a unique blending of buffs, creams, and biscuit tints. Each folder is eminently suited for the particular photo to be enclosed therein.

It has a two-flap case, enclosing a cut-out mount, delicately Indian tinted with dual tints on a plate mark. The photo. shows through the mount with good effect. It is flexible, and will not crack or break in carriage.

The same price for sittings or copied from another photo.

Bromide Portraits (Engraving Black), 16/6 per doz.; or True Sepia Portraits, 21/ per doz.

This beautiful creation is worthy of the first place in any collection.

If you do not see our window before going elsewhere you are sure to be sorry.

"The pictures bring home the realities of war to us much more vividly than any pen pictures can do. Many of the views are so close and clear that the soldiers who appear in them should easily be recognised by their friends."
—"SYDNEY MORNING HERALD."

". . . A masterpiece of photography. The pictures demonstrate the supremacy of our air service. At frequent intervals the audience was allowed to look down on to the actual German lines from a height of 17,000 feet. Sustained applause almost involuntarily broke from the audience at each appearance of the Australians."

LAW REPORT.

IN BANCO.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring, Mr. Justice Sly, and Mr. Justice Gordon.)

QUESTION OF TRAVELLING STOCK.

Hogan v Brazier.

Mr. Watt, instructed by Messrs. Makinson and D'Apice (agents for Mr. T. R. Hogan, of Moree), appeared for the appellant, Hogan and Mr. J. A. Ferguson, instructed by Messrs. Weaver and Allworth (agents for Mr. Harry Weaver, of Armidale), for the respondent, Brazier. This was an appeal on behalf of Thomas Rogers Hogan from the determination of Mr. F. W. C. Crane, P.M., at Moree, in a proceeding before him in which Hogan was the complainant and Charles Edgar Brazier defendant. The information alleged that on April 6 last, at Kia Ora, near Gurley, Brazier, a drover, in charge of travelling stock—namely, 100 ewes—did not take such stock by the direct route ordinarily used for the purpose of travelling stock to the place of destination mentioned in the permit for such stock. The defendant pleaded not guilty, and after hearing evidence, the magistrate on May 31 dismissed the information, and ordered complainant to pay a total sum of £8 5s for the costs of the defendant; in default of payment, imprisonment for one month, with hard labour. The question was whether the magistrate's decision was erroneous in law. The information was laid under section 107 of the Pastures Protection Act, 1912, and Mr. Watt said the matter was one of considerable importance in the country districts, and raised the question whether stock must be taken over any route, or over a stock route "ordinarily used" for that purpose. Counsel stated further that Brazier, who was a settlement lessee, was bringing the sheep to a place named Gurley, and in order to cut off about 2½ miles it was alleged that he left the route ordinarily used, and so committed the offence charged. The road in question, though perhaps available to foot passengers, went through enclosed land, and was not ordinarily used for purposes of travelling stock. That being so, the respondent in the present appeal had committed a breach of the Act, and the magistrate's finding was erroneous. Mr. Ferguson raised an objection that as there was no question of law involved or stated, and the issue being merely one of fact, the Court had no jurisdiction to hear the case. He was, however, not called upon to reply to the argument advanced by appellant.

Mr. Justice Pring, in delivering the judgment of the Court, said the magistrate had two issues before him—namely, was this a road, and, secondly, was it a road "ordinarily used" for the purpose of travelling stock? It was a reserved road, and therefore came within the definition of section 4 of the Act. It had been argued by Mr. Watt that reserved roads of this description were only open for foot passengers. How that argument could be supported the Court did not know, nor had counsel cited any authority to support his argument. A road was one which was open for traffic of all kinds, and the question here was whether this particular road was a route "ordinarily used" for the purpose of travelling stock. There was overwhelming evidence before the magistrate that it was. Appeal dismissed with costs.

HOTEL RENT AND THE REFERENDUM.

Lawliss v Fitzgerald and another.

Mr. J. L. Campbell, K.C., and Mr. Watt, instructed by Messrs. Pigott and Stinson (agents for Messrs. R. G. D. Fitzgerald and Co., of Muswellbrook), appeared for defendants, in support of demurer to the first count of plaintiff's declaration; and Mr. Knox, K.C., and Mr. Alec. Thomson, instructed by Messrs. Shipway and Berne, for the plaintiff to oppose. In her declaration Helena Silmann Ann Lawliss, licensee of the Railway Hotel, Muswellbrook, sued Robert George Dundas Fitzgerald and John Watts Humphries, as executors of the will of Martin Rasmussen, who, before his death was the owner of the hotel, to recover abatement of rent, allowed by the magistrate at Muswellbrook by an order of April 3 last. It appeared that plaintiff was the licensee of the hotel for the unexpired period of the lease at a rental of £7 per week. She paid that rent up to April last, and in consequence of the closing of hotels at 6 p.m., as a result of the Referendum vote, she applied, under the provisions of the Liquor (Amendment) Act, 1916, for an abatement of her rent. The magistrate decided that the abatement which should be made in the rent which had or might hereafter become payable in respect of the hotel during the period in which, in pursuance of the Liquor Referendum Act, 1916, the closing time of licensed premises should be 6 p.m., should be 15s per week. Plaintiff claimed £27 8s 6d, being the portion of rental so paid between July 1, 1916, and the date of the magistrate's order. To this count defendants now demurred, on the ground that it disclosed no cause of action, and that on the proper construction of the magistrate's order, plaintiff was not entitled to receive any refund of rent already paid prior to the date of the application, and that the order only operated to abate to the extent therein fixed, the rent payable at the date of the application and order or which might become payable after the said date. It was further contended that no facts were alleged in the count to establish any liability on the part of the defendants, as executors, to be sued for a refund of the rent paid. Mr. Campbell pointed out that although the amount involved was small, the matter was one of very great importance. The case was a test one, and the decision would affect a large number of licensees and owners of hotel properties.

Judgment was reserved.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

MOTION TO SET ASIDE ORDER.

Re Fryer, ex parte Mansfield.

Mr. Sheridan, instructed by Messrs. Biddulph and Salenger, moved, on behalf of Annie Maria Fryer, to set aside a bankruptcy notice served on her by Leslie MacDougall Mansfield. The grounds of the motion were that the applicant was not personally served with a summons in respect of which judgment was issued; that the District Court, Lismore, where the judgment was issued, had no jurisdiction. A third ground was that the said judgment was in respect of professional costs, of which a detailed bill of items was not served before action. Counsel for the applicant further argued that the issue of the bankruptcy notice was an infringement of regulation 13 of the War Precautions Act, the notice being issued against the wife of a member of the military forces.

Mr. Linton (Messrs. Perkins, Stevenson, and Co.), who appeared for the respondent, contended that the moratorium regulation did not apply in the present case, as the husband of the applicant had ceased to be a member of the military forces.

The case is part heard.

INDUSTRIAL ARBITRATION COURT.

NEWCASTLE WHARF LABOURERS. REGISTRATION CANCELLED.

(Before Judge Rolin.)

Application was made by Claude Dillon (representing seven interstate steamship owners, and 26 other steamship companies), and by N. C. Seale (representing coastal steamship owners) for the cancellation of the registration of the Newcastle Wharf-labourers' Union. Mr. J. B. Moffatt appeared for the respondent union.

Affidavits in support of the application were read. Charles Henry Cox, shipping foreman of the Broken Hill Company at Newcastle, deposed that on September 8, during the engine-drivers' strike at the company's works, wharf-labourers worked from 4 to 5 p.m. on the job of loading 2000 tons of steel rails on a steamer. Next day the men declined to load from certain trucks at the ship's side, which had been brought there by the company's staff. The result was that the ship left Newcastle with only 7½ tons of the steel rails out of 2000 tons, which were to have been despatched. A few days after September 8, a steamer arrived at the company's wharf to be loaded with munition steel for transhipment, via Sydney, to the Imperial Government. The wharf-labourers, deponent was advised, and he believed, refused to proceed to the company's works to load this steel. On August 11, all the company's employees, except the staff, ceased work, some of them stating that the coal at the works had been declared "black."

On the other side, George Rees and Walter Curtis deposed that they had been ready to proceed with work, but none was available.

In delivering judgment, his Honor said that it could not be disputed that the union had taken part in the late calamitous strike by its members not offering themselves for work. Though it was contended that the union itself had not taken part in the strike, that ground was untenable. The ostensible reason for striking was that certain goods had been declared "black." Comment on this action had already been made.

If a union flouts the law and strikes in circumstances as disclosed in the affidavits, it was in the highest degree undesirable that it should retain any privileges conferred upon it by the laws it had broken. Respect for the law would be weakened if a union, no matter how bad its conduct, retained the same privileges as a law abiding union. It had been shown that the respondents had prevented the Broken Hill Co., at Newcastle, from suplying and loading munitions. A worse form of strike could hardly be conceived at a time when war imperilled the very existence of the Empire.

"I must," concluded his Honor, "mark my disapproval of such action by depriving the union of the privileges to which only law-abiding unions are entitled. I therefore direct the cancellation of this union's registration as an industrial union."

QUARTER SESSIONS APPEALS.

Judge Backhouse presided in the Quarter Sessions Appeal Court yesterday.

The case of Percival Brookfield is reported in another column.

Herbert Scott appealed against a conviction by Mr. Payten, S.M., at Sydney, on September 8, awarding appellant a month's imprisonment on a charge of stealing three cases of whisky, valued at £11/14/. Mr. J. W. Abigail appeared in support of the appeal, and as it was shown that appellant had borne an excellent character, an order was made postpoining the hearing of the appeal, on appellant binding himself to appear for sentence if called upon within six months.

The appeal of George Edward Aitken against a sentence of two months hard labour imposed upon him by Mr. M'Kensey, S.M., at the Glebe Court, on September 8, on a charge of stealing six bags of flour, was dismissed, with £3/3/ costs.

A DOMAIN SPEECH.

YOUNG MAN CHARGED.

Vance Marshall, a young man, was charged at the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon, before Mr. Clarke, S.M., with making statements likely to cause disaffection. The words complained of were:—"I see by the papers that the British have had a great victory. I suppose that that means the Australians. You have heard of the German flag flying over Sydney. It can fly next week, as far as I am concerned. So long as my class, the industrial workers, get decent conditions, I don't care a —— what flag they put over me; they can change it every week. They can put a Chinese or a Japanese one week, a Russian the next, a German the next, a British the next, and any other old flag they like, as long as I and my comrades get a decent living. It won't matter to me one single iota." It was alleged that the words were uttered on October 7 of this year.

Major Bowie Wilson appeared for the prosecution; defendant conducted his own case.

Constable Barrett deposed that on Sunday, 7th inst., he was in the Domain with Constables M'Murray and Keogh, and attended a meeting held there by the Social Democratic and Anti-conscription League. Accused was chairman of that meeting, and from 400 to 600 people were present. Late in the afternoon the words complained of were used by accused.

Constable Alexander M'Murray deposed to taking down the words mentioned in shorthand. They were delivered at the close of the meeting.

Accused entered the witness box, and said he was organiser of the Miscellaneous Workers' Union. He acted as chairman of a meeting on October 7 in the Domain, and in opening the meeting, owing to a threatened shortage of speakers, he spoke at length until his voice absolutely failed him. The meeting was closed by a Mr. Luke Jones, and the people dispersed. As about 100 people remained, witness got on the platform, and with a few words in reference to the previous speaker, he declared the meeting closed. In doing so he spoke about the conditions of life in Australia, saying that he realised the horror under which people were living in Australia, and that what mattered to them was getting decent conditions of living, not the colour of the flag under which they lived.

The hearing was adjourned until the following day.

FAILING TO REGISTER.

Arthur Johnson, 45, said to be a Swede, who had resided in Australia for 20 years, was charged before Mr. Love, S.M., at the Water Police Court yesterday morning with having failed to register as an alien.

On the application of the police prosecutor, Sergeant Spyer, he was remanded till November 2. Bail, self in £200 and a surety of £200, was allowed.

CHINESE GAMBLERS.

Several Chinese were fined £1 each, with costs 1/, at the Central Police Court yesterday on charges of being found on the premises of a common gaming house on Saturday last. Some of them were stated to be marking pak-a-pu tickets, some were playing fan tan, and others were playing tuen gow.

Mr. Anthony R. Book, Professor of Languages, Malvern (Vic), writes that he would not be without Clements Tonic in the house on any account. He tells his friends to take it.—Advt.

CHAPTER IV.—Continued.

Brenda, standing close to the armchair, looked with a flash of indignation from the stern face to the white face and frightened eyes of the sick man's wife. It seemed to the girl that the doctor had spoken with unnecessary harshness—indeed, with actual brutality—but he went on speaking before any one else could utter a syllable.

"I will do all that can be done for the patient," he said, "and meanwhile I must ask you to send for another medical man."

"Why? Oh, John, why must anybody else be sent for? I am quite satisfied to have you. I know I can trust you. Why must anyone else come? Surely you have forgiven me now?" There were tears on her uplifted face, her voice faltered into silence, her blue, tear-filled eyes looked wistfully at him. But his lips only set themselves more firmly, there was no softening in his glance. It was still as cold and hard as though the very sight of her was distasteful to him.

"I should like a second opinion," he said, ignoring her words about forgiveness and avoiding her glance, "and it is quite impossible that I should undertake the case, though I will do all that is possible for the moment. But I want you to understand how very little it is possible to do. I must be honest with you. There is no hope of saving him."

The woman in the armchair gave a little cry, and flung out her hands towards him; but he ignored her appealing hands as he had ignored her appealing words, and having asked Eva Ormonde to send at once for Dr. Jennings, the most important physician in Marshdale, he returned to the prostrate patient. He knew that, humanly speaking, there was little enough that either he or anyone else could do for the man who lay before him; but such things as could be done John did quietly, almost mechanically. He sent the elderly servant for pillows, blankets, hot bottles, and with her help made the sick man as comfortable as was possible.

"It is better to leave him quietly there than to attempt to lift him on the couch," John said decidedly; "he is heavy and big. You cannot move him until you can get three or four men to help you; and the less he is moved about the better." But although the doctor did his work in so quiet, so methodical a fashion, yet underneath the cold exterior and the quiet manner which had at once made him master in that room of frightened women, a volcano was raging. He himself was appalled by the storm of emotion which swept over him now that he was once again face to face with the woman who had made such havoc of his life. Nina here? Nina huddled up in that armchair, looking at him with tear-dimmed eyes and quivering lips, because her husband— the rich elderly man who had supplanted him—lay unconscious, sick unto death. It was like some strange and dreadful nightmare to realise that he—he, John Camberley, was in the same room again with the woman upon whom he had lavished all the wealth of his young love and adoration, the woman who had seemed to him to stand for all that was most beautiful and wonderful in womanhood itself. He was torn in two by conflicting longings. Hot anger against Nina struggled with an insane desire to seize her in his arms, to crush her against him, to kiss the lovely face which for four long years had haunted him like an obsession. But the anger and the bitterness predominated over the softer sensations; and when presently Dr. Jenkins was ushered into the room Camberley's prevailing feeling was one of intense relief.

Camberley's appearance was a great contrast to Dr. Jennings' air of having been recently turned out of the proverbial band-box, for the younger man's clothes were shabby, his face lined and worn, his hair rough and unkempt. He seemed to belong to a world quite apart from the man with the sleekly brushed hair, the smooth, self-satisfied face, and immaculately cut clothes; and there was about him a certain air of forlornness which proclaimed to the world that he was a failure. And Dr. Jennings not only consistently hated and avoided failures in general, he also regarded this particular failure with what he pleased to call "righteous indignation."

"You?" he questioned, lifting his eyebrows as Camberley moved towards him to explain what had happened and the line of treatment he had taken. "I am rather surprised to find you here." The emphasis on the "you" was offensive, and John winced. But he recovered himself immediately. In the past four years he had almost taught himself to be callous to rebuff and contempt; both had been persistently his portion.

"I happened to be passing the house," he said quietly, "and Miss Ormonde called me in to see Mr. Danvers. The attack was very sudden." He described exactly the condition in which he had found the patient, and the measures he had taken to relieve him, and then, without waiting for further comment from the other medical man, he went up to Eva, who stood a little in the background, her face still flushed and troubled, her eyes full of anxiety.

"Dr. Jennings will take everything in hand now," he said to her; "he will do all that can possibly be done. I am very sorry all this has happened in your house. I hope your brother will be back soon; it is a great anxiety for you."

"My brother had only gone into the town to see somebody; he was—I mean he is coming back to tea. It is so difficult to remember we were going to have tea just in the ordinary way." Eva's eyes met Joan's with a certain bewilderment. The two had withdrawn a little from the group in the centre of the room, and were talking in undertones close to the window.

"Yes," he said gently, "I know. It is always difficult to realise that life goes on in a normal way whatever happens to us. But your brother will be in soon?"

"Oh, yes—I am sure he will be in soon," Eva repeated the words. "You see, Mr. and Mrs. Danvers arrived earlier than we expected. They were to have been here in time for tea, to talk over things with my brother; and he meant to have been back—and now——" Eva did not finish her sentence; she looked from the unconscious man over whom Dr. Jennings was bending, to the figure crouched in the armchair, and then back again at Camberley. "It is all so dreadful," she said under her breath, "and, oh, please—must you go away?" At the childish words a grim, little smile crossed Camberley's face.

"There is no reason for my saying now that you have Jennings," he answered, "and I"—he hesitated—"you know I am not looked upon with any favour in Marshdale, Miss Ormonde. The sooner I am out of your house the better for you." Such exceeding bitterness crept into his voice as he spoke that the girl put out her hand impulsively.

"Please don't talk like that," she said, "I am sorry you must go out of the house, and I am very grateful to you for coming and helping us just when we most wanted help. Thank you ever so much."

John wrung the hand she held out to him, and if his grip of her small fingers hurt them she made no sign; and the grateful look in her eyes made John's sore heart a little less sore. As he was moving away from her and towards the door, the woman in the armchair lifted her head again, and their eyes met. But his face was set like a mask, and he passed her by as though he were totally unaware of her presence, making his way quickly across the hall, out of the house, and so down the drive into the elm-bordered road. His thoughts were in a turmoil. Old memories, old scenes, flashed into his mind with startling vividness, and as he hurried on along the dusty highway, he was living again in the past of four years before. As plainly as though he were actually there before his eyes he saw the rectory garden where he and Nina had first met, when he was in the heyday of his youth, beginning a career which promised to be one unbroken pathway of success. He and Nina's brother, Tom Merdley, had been fellow-students at St. Dunstan's, and the week-ends which he spent in the village of which Tom and Nina's father was rector were marked in the diary of his soul in letters of gold. The sloping lawn where the boughs of a cedar tree swept the daisy-covered grass; the pergola of roses from which crimson petals dropped upon Nina's white gown; the orange sky of sunset behind the church tower round which the rooks cawed softly before flying homewards to their nests in the great elm trees—that was a picture that spread itself before his eyes. Or spring afternoons when a beech tree in the lower garden was unfolding leaves of new green, and the fruit trees showed a cloud of blossom against a blue sky; when the lilacs were in bloom and the thrushes sang—he could see those afternoons as though they were only lately passed, and almost smell again the sweetness of the hawthorn flowers and the delicate fragrance of laburnum. And Nina herself was always the centre of all the pictures—Nina with her lovely face made the crowning glory of all the spring and summer loveliness.

They had drifted so quickly from friendship into love, she and he who was her brother's friend. And in his eyes she had seemed perfection from the very first. Just perfection, neither more nor less; all that she looked and said and did was right in his eyes. He loved her with the blind, overwhelming love of a man who had never before come into close contact with any woman, who brought to this particular woman all the best and purest of his young manhood.

What Grateful Mothers Say ABOUT HEENZO (REGISTERED NAME for... HEAN'S ESSENCE)

The Great Money-Saving Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Catarrh, AND OTHER CHEST AND THROAT TROUBLES.

Over 5000 Testimonials have been received from users all over Australasia, telling of the merits of Heenzo.

Mothers especially sing the praises of Heenzo for two very cogent reasons: 1st, because it gives relief more speedily than any other remedy used by them, and 2nd, because Heenzo enables them to make up cough mixture for the family at about one-sixth the cost of ready-made mixtures.

We could write columns about the good qualities of Heenzo from the chemist's point of view, but prefer to let users tell you of their experiences.

WHOOPING COUGH QUICKLY CURED.

MRS. A. H. LAW, 17 Hewlett-street, Waverley, writes concerning the value of Heenzo for the treatment of Whooping Cough:—

"I wish to tell you of a remarkable cure of Whooping Cough by your marvellous Heenzo. I had used this remedy for coughs and colds in my family with beneficial results for some time, but it was not till recently that I had occasion to put it to the test as a remedy for Whooping Cough, which was developed by my baby, Jack. As you know, this is a very serious ailment with babies. Having had such success with Heenzo for ordinary colds and sore throats, I thought it might ease my baby's whooping cough; but did not expect a rapid cure, as my previous experience with this ailment was that it took a long while to get rid of it. You can therefore imagine my surprise and delight when, after using Heenzo for a little over three days, baby's cough diminished, and gradually left him altogether. I feel so grateful to your grand medicine, which is invaluable to all, that I can hardly find words to adequately express my thanks. I may state that I used honey to make the Heenzo up, as I think it better than any other sweetening. You may use this letter as you think fit, as I think it my duty to let it be known to other mothers what a splendid medicine Heenzo is for Whooping Cough. In previous cases among my children, other remedies only gave slight relief. I am sending you baby Jack's photo, from which you can see he is the picture of health. He now has no cough whatever. Any mother who would like to learn for herself may call at my address, when I will be pleased to tell personally of my experience with your wonderful medicine.—I remain, yours respectfully, (Mrs.) A. H. LAW."

THE DR. CALLS HIM "MY HEENZO BABY."

Mrs. HEINS, 1st Railway Gates, Dubbo, wrote on Sept. 25, 1917:—

"I am posting you a photo of my baby boy, who was not expected to live when 12 days old, but Heenzo saved his life. Even the doctor calls him my 'Heenzo Baby.' The only medicine I ever give him is Heenzo, and I know dozens of people who are never without your great remedy for coughs and colds. My husband has the same faith in Heenzo that I have. The other day a youth, employed at the local flour mill, came to me for something for his throat, as he had heard of a great remedy that I made up. I told him it was Heenzo, and gave him some of the mixture I had on hand. A couple of days afterwards he came back to me delighted, and said: 'Isn't it wonderful stuff?' His throat was cured. But he brought a bottle of Heenzo with him to get me to make up a pint of mixture for him. Wishing you every success."

ESPECIALLY GOOD FOR CROUP.

Mrs. CONSTANCE PHILLIPS, of the Royal Australian Wild West Circus, writes:—

"I think that your remedies are a boon to mothers. I have seven little ones, and, as they are constantly travelling in all sorts of weather, they get numerous colds and chills; but a dose or two of mixture made from Heenzo Cough Essence always makes them well again, and nothing serious follows. In fact, all my company swear by it. We would on no account go on a long journey without a supply of Heenzo and Hean's Tonic Nerve Nuts in the medicine chest. I have found Henzo especially effective in driving away croup, a complaint to which my children are subject. Your remedies are indeed a blessing to mankind."

SIX LITTLE CHILDREN QUICKLY CURED.

Mrs. M. P. RANIER, of Loretto, Waratah-avenue, Randwick, the well-known sketch artist, wrote on June 26, 1917:—

"I think Heenzo is real fine for colds and coughs. I'm a widow with six little children, and this last fortnight I've had them all down with very bad coughs and colds, so bought a bottle of Heenzo last week, and I must say they are nearly well now. My late husband used to take it when he had a cold. He was Edward Ranier, of the Rickards' Circuit, the Dickens Character Actor."

Costs 2/ —— Saves 10/.

Besides being such a fine medicine, Heenzo is also A GREAT MONEY-SAVER. Each bottle, when sweetened and diluted with warm water, as per easy directions printed on the label, produces a pint of ready-to-use mixture. A pint of ordinary remedies would cost at least 12/. Heenzo costs 2/ (by post 2/3), and is obtainable from all leading chemists and stores, or direct from G. W. HEAN, Manufacturing Chemist, 178 Castlereagh-street, Sydney.

N.B.—If you do not require a family supply of cough mixture, or cannot conveniently carry a liquid remedy, ask for HEENZO COUGH DIAMONDS. They are lozenges packed in tins which readily fit into vest pocket or handbag. They are specially handy for singers, public speakers, and travellers. Price, 1/ per tin.

ON THE LAND.

WHEAT STORAGE.

In accordance with the scheme of wheat storage decided upon to meet the difficulty arising out of war conditions, and in anticipation of the installation of bulk handling, it has been decided to construct 71 emergency grain silos in this State in the southern and western wheat districts. Tenders, which close on November 19, are being called by the Department of Agriculture for the construction of these silos, which have been placed in three geographical groups according to the following lists:—

Group 1.—Peak Hill (1), Manildra (1), Gilgandra (1), Dubbo (1), Narromine (1), Bogan Gate (2), Trundle (2), Molong (2), Eumungerie (2), Geurie (4), Parkes (5), Forbes (6), Wellington (6).

Group 2.—Woodstock (1), Bolygamy (1), Calleen (1), Reefton (1), Combaning (1), Monteagle (1), Young (1), Cootamundra (1), Greenthorpe (2), Yiddah (2), Bribaree (2), Millvale (2), Caragabal (2), Stockinbingal (2), Wuttamondara (2), Moombooldool (3), Boorowa (3), Cowra (4), Kamarah (4), Ardlethan (4), Mirrool (4), Barmedman (4), Temora (2 5's), Barellan (5), Beckom (5), Canowindra (5), Ariah Park (6), West Wyalong (6), Grenfell (6).

Group 3.—Brushwood (1), Harefield (1), Yerong Creek (1), Tootool (1), Cullivel (1), Grong Grong (2), Illabo (2), Uranquinty (2), Gurrumbuttock (2), Matong (2), Culcairn (2), Brocklesby (3), Berrigan (3), Finley (3), Ganmain (3), Walla (4), Milbrulong (4), Marrar (4), Coolamon (4), Old Junee (5), Balldale (5), Hopefield (5), The Rock (6), Henley (6), Oaklands (6), Boree Creek (6), Lockhart (2 6's).

In the above list the unit (1) stands for 50,000 bushels. Thus at Peak Hill there will be one silo, with a capacity of 50,000 bushels; at Bogan Gate two silos, total capacity 100,000 bushels; at Wellington, six silos of 50,000 bushels' capacity each, a total capacity of 300,000 bushels. In two cases, at Temora and Lockhart, there will be two separate groups of silos at the one centre; at Temora two lots of five silos with separate power houses, a total capacity of 500,000 bushels; and at Lockhart two lots of six silos, total capacity 600,000 bushels. The total capacity of all the silos will be 11,100,000 bushels. It will be noted that no silos are being constructed in the north or north-west. Later on, when full provision is made for bulk handling, wheat districts in those parts of the State will have to receive attention. It is recognised, however, that the wheat from these parts has not the same keeping capacity as the wheat grown farther south; and, therefore, an endeavour will be made to consume it locally, the other wheat for preference being stored for future export. This course has been followed at the request of the Imperial authorities. It is expected that the silos will be constructed in about twelve months' time, and be ready for the harvest of 1918-19.

FRUIT DISTRIBUTION.

The recommendations of the recently appointed Fruit Distribution Committee will probably be brought before the Cabinet this morning by the Minister for Agriculture. The two primary proposals are the financing of an advertising campaign by the Government and the imposition of 1d, ½d, and ¼d stamps on all bushel, half, and quarter bushel cases of fruit sold, to provide money for the working expenses of the committee. Mr. Grahame is said to favour these proposals. If the stamp system is approved of, it will have the advantage of compelling all growers, whether local or interstate, who market their fruit and benefit directly or indirectly by the work of the committee to pay accordingly. If the initial matter of finance is arranged it should not be difficult to establish depots and a delivery system which would effect the distribution of a large quantity of fruit, providing it is made available at a reasonable price.

ENGLISH WOOL TRADE.

ROUND TABLE CONFERENCE.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

BRADFORD, Sept. 13.

A conference has taken place between Mr. H. W. Forster, M.P., Financial Secretary to the War Office, and representatives of all sections of the trade from those handling the raw material to those producing the finished article. Mr. Forster, speaking on behalf of the Government, has taken up an attitude and laid down principles of government which show clearly enough that the permanent officials are still in the saddle and going to remain so. Whatever concessions have been promised amount to very little indeed, and there is precious little to indicate any radical reforms in the interests of the trade. If the entire trade could have spoken with the voice of one man perhaps material concessions would have been granted. The manufacturers have not helped the negotiations which have taken place, and one regrets that too much selfish interest has been apparent.

CONCESSIONS WITHOUT REFORMS.

Mr. Forster plainly told the members of the deputation that the most important sections of the proposed board of control are to stand intact. Three spinners are asked to serve on the board of control, but that is the limit. Section committees are to be constituted in order to have a watching brief for the interests of the sections they represent, the chairman will be invited to attend the various meetings of the Board of Control to state the views of that committee, but is to have no voting power. We are reluctantly forced to the conclusion that, whatever seeming concessions have been made, there are practically no reforms foreshadowed, and from first to last the hand of officialdom is still to be uppermost, ruling, guiding, and determining the destiny of the entire industry. We cannot see where reforms are likely to come in.

MILITARY REQUIREMENTS.

One important result of last Tuesday's conference is the point emphasised by Mr. Forster that the War Office is still in urgent need of woollen and worsted fabrics. The trade has been candidly told that stocks of certain fabrics are dangerously low, but who is to blame for this state of affairs but the department itself? We have often alluded to the farcical meeting that was held in Bradford, when the chief spokesman of the Government, representing the worsted spinners' section, told the meeting that they were still wanting further big quantities of yarn for military purposes, the same cry of urgency then being made. It is a fact that very many spinners from that very moment offered to put a large portion of their plants on Government work. Within three days the department had many applications for orders, and not to this day have the majority been favoured with any order whatever. One has only to go back during the whole of the past two years to see what incompetence has been manifest in dealing with this great question of providing for military needs, and we state candidly that the Government and our Allies can have all their demands met if business principles are followed with that object in view. It is all right members of the Government blaming spinners and manufacturers for their desire to do more profitable civilian trade than less profitable Government work. Many have characterised that statement as untrue, and we repeat that whatever deficiency of stocks there is to-day in Government fabrics it is due, not to the unwillingness of spinners and manufacturers to do that work, but to the fact that they have not been called upon in a businesslike way to shoulder that responsibility, for when they have asked for work they have been turned away with the statement that there were no orders to give out.

WHERE THE DEFICIENCY ARISES.

We are strongly inclined to think from our practical knowledge of the trade that the real cause of deficient supplies is not due to the worsted spinners of the trade, but to a lack of woollen machinery. For months it has been known that it was woollen warps and wefts which were most urgently wanted, and here again there has been decided slackness on the part of Government officials in getting machines on to work on Government account.

OUTLOOK FOR CIVILIAN TRADE.

The outlook for both civilian and export trade is anything but encouraging, and unless the writer is greatly mistaken the policy of drift, which has been apparent for months, will get worse in the near future. It is an outstanding feature that in all branches of the textile trade, particularly among manufacturers, initiative is dead, and one meets daily with frank confessions fast bordering upon despair. Of course some say that there is no room for development at a time like the present, and there certainly is not. At the same time, when the trade as a body is largely suffering from a sense of disgust, when all independence has been taken away, machinery totally unadapted for military purposes is being only run through principals having no go cap in hand begging for supplies, the experience is too humiliating to the majority, who say that in face of these disabilities, plus 80 per cent. excess profit tax, there is nothing to-day to inspire anyone to adopt a programme other than that of retrogression.

THE BUTTER BUSINESS.

LONDON, Sept. 6.

At the moment the butter market is practically at a standstill. The Food Controller has issued his orders for the regulation of the sale of provisions, and from September 10 those orders will be legally enforced, a Royal Proclamation being issued. The idea here is that Lord Rhondda wants to do away with the middleman altogether, and, generally speaking, that is considered impracticable, if not impossible. At present we are getting nearer and nearer a butter famine. Little or no Dutch butter is on the market (the export has been stopped), and yet the retail price of Danish is to be brought down by next month. Irish is more or less nominal, pending things settling down. No Australian or New Zealand is offering. Danish and Dutch command very high rates when offered, approximate prices being, say, 300/ and 275/ respectively, ex cold store. Ten thousand cases of Argentine have come to hand, to be immediately snapped up.

The Food Controller's order prescribes that no butter shall be sold by or on behalf of the importer or the maker at a price exceeding the maximum prices for the time being fixed as the first-hand price. Any person other than the importer or maker must not sell butter at a price which exceeds by more than 7s 6d per cwt either (1) the price paid by him, or (2) the first-hand price in force at the time, whichever is less. To this may be added the charge for cold storage incurred before September 3 and for transport, but these items must be shown separately on the invoice. From September 10 no person may sell butter retail at more than 2½d per lb in excess of the actual cost to him, but an additional ½d per lb may be charged for giving credit or for delivery. The schedule of first-hand prices attached to the order is as under:—

French fresh rolls, ex port, 24/ per doz lb.

BRANDING WHEAT BAGS.

Mr. A. G. Manning, M.L.A., has been advised by the Under-Secretary and Director of Agriculture, Mr. G. Valder, that the branding of wheat sacks will not be enforced this year.

FRUITGROWING.

At a meeting of Cattai fruitgrowers it was decided, after an address by Mr. Crowther, organising secretary for the Fruitgrowers' Association of New South Wales, to form a local branch of the association.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

ALSTONVILLE.—The country round Alstonville since the late good rain never looked better. There is an abundance of feed everywhere, and the cattle are in splendid condition.

DESTRUCTION OF RABBITS.

An information was recently laid against the owner of certain lands charging him with failing to fully and continuously perform the duty of suppressing rabbits. The magistrate found, as a fact, that although the defendant was the owner, he was not in occupation of the land, which was held by another person under a lease; but, despite this, the defendant was convicted of the charge. The Pastures Protection Act provides that it shall be the duty of the owner or occupier respectively of any land from time to time to suppress and destroy all rabbits, and noxious animals, which may from time to time be upon such land. On appeal being made to the Supreme Court against the decision, it was held that the decision of the magistrate was erroneous, and that the information should have been dismissed.

STAMP DUTY.

In connection with stamp duty, £4686 13s 3d was paid last week. The estate of the late Mr. Henry Alfred Mitchell Merewether, of Potts Point (valued at £18,390), contributed £1259; Mr. Matthew Alexander Reid's estate (Victoria), valued at £18,094, paid £1210; and the estate of the late Mr. Charles Tranter Franklin, of Victoria (valued at £17,425), paid £1104 duty.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION AGREEMENT.

Under the Workmen's Compensation Act, Sarah Jane Mills, of Raglan-street, Waterloo, had instituted proceedings against Enoch Atkin, contractor, of Park-road, Marrickville. The claim was for compensation for the loss of Mrs. Mills's husband, whose death took place in the course of his employment by the respondent. An agreement was arrived at between the parties which was sent to the Metropolitan District Court for registration. The terms of settlement were the payment into Court of £340 by the respondent.

Inquiry was made into the circumstances by Mr. J. M. A. Bonthorne, Registrar of the District Court, who supplied a report to his Honor Judge Docker. The latter decided that he would need strong supporting evidence as to the fairness of any settlement such as that in the present case. Under the Act the widow was entitled to compensation up to £500 if she succeeded in proving her case by arbitration.

His Honor declined to sanction the registration of the agreement. Mr. Curtis, instructed by Messrs. Boyce and Magney, appeared for the respondent.

FAILURE TO SUPPLY INCOME TAX RETURNS.

Richard James Flock, wharf superintendent of Allen Taylor's, Limited, was fined £5 and 3s costs, in default 14 days' imprisonment, by Mr. Love, S.M., at the Water Police Court yesterday for having failed to furnish a Federal income tax return.

George Harbourne, a journeyman butcher, living at Parramatta, was also fined £5 and 3s costs, in default 14 days, on a similar charge.

RETURNED SOLDIERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Since I have returned, some four months ago, I have answered fully fifty (50) advertisements for employment, and each time I have stated that I am a returned soldier, and the only reply I received was from Anthony Hordern and Sons, but was ill, and could not call upon them. This seems to prove that the employers will not venture to take on returned soldiers. Why is this? Are we not worthy of consideration? I am a married man, practically living on friends. I am willing to do any work, such as storeman, traveller, or clerking, yet I cannot get anything to do. A number of returned men are being housed and fed by the R.S.A. Is this a credit to New South Wales, after the way the men have fought and bled for them? I think it is time the Government placed the returned soldiers in the positions of the Government employees who are too cold-footed to shoulder a gun in defence of the country. Is there no employer in Sydney who will answer this, and give a willing Anzac a chance? I am, etc.,

TOWN AND COUNTRY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Referring to the distress among the workers of Sydney and suburbs owing to lack of employment, it is not easy for the country people to sympathise while they are in distress for lack of workers. In this town and district good homes and good pay are begging for the assistance they are willing to pay for and cannot get. House helps and farm hands are badly needed, and wages up to 35/ per week and keep are offered to the latter for reasonable work in vain. Is not the one word centralisation an explanation of the surplus of labour in and around Sydney and the dearth of it among the producers in the country? I am, etc.,

THE ITALIAN DEFEAT.

No graver or sadder news could be imagined at this period of the war than the admission of defeat contained in the Italian official report, and published in our cablegrams this morning. The intervention of the Italian Government was the outcome of a popular movement inspired by a determination to unite all men of Italian descent in one kingdom and to protect that kingdom against Austrian domination. It was designed to complete the work of three of the noblest figures of last century, in conjunction with the two Powers who had done most to help them. For more than two years the Italian troops have struggled against the most formidable obstacles. They have suffered many disappointments, but have made continuous progress, and by their successes of the spring and autumn of this year had come in sight of final victory. All their hopes have now been destroyed, and all their exertions nullified by the desertion of one of their armies in face of an Austro-German concentration. The line of the Isonzo which was captured with so much heroism and so much skill has been broken, Gorizia has been abandoned, Italian territory has been invaded, and the town of Cividale entered by the enemy. The Italian authorities very rightly remind us of the bravery and tenacity of their soldiers, and express the utmost confidence in their Commander-in-Chief. No student of the history of the war needs to be told that the Italian army has been led by a great general, and has shown the utmost bravery and devotion to duty. In spite of official assurances and our own knowledge it is impossible to feel confident that the spirit of anarchy and cowardice is confined to the second army. It has been bred by the anarchical propaganda which has spread through certain districts of Italy in recent years, and has been offered no adequate remedy by Parliament. It has been intensified by the restrictions on food, rendered necessary by the German blockade, and by the failure of the Government to devise any adequate scheme of distribution. It is impossible to say whether a poison which has so disastrously infected one army will not spread to others. The Italian people have a motive for fighting against the Austrians stronger even than the memories and the ambitions which inspire their hereditary enemies. The Austrians have kept alive the detestation which was felt for them before the War of Liberation by the tortures inflicted on their Italian subjects during the war. We may be confident that popular feeling will resist any offer of a separate peace, and will consent to any sacrifices necessary to expel the enemy from Italian soil. Italian patriots, however, both now and henceforward, will have to contend against very strong influence. The element which repudiates Governments and discipline and demands peace on the ground that class must take the place of nationality, will gain new confidence. The neutralists will press the Government to accept any bribe that may be offered, and the Germans, whatever their promise to Austria, will be certain to offer a bribe in order to buy off one of their enemies.

The disaster is the most serious that has happened to the Allies since the defeat of the Russian army on the Dunajec. It ends our hopes of a collapse of Austria, to be followed by a breach in the Teutonic alliance. It means that Germany will enter the winter months with the confidence of her people at the point which it reached in 1915. However steadfastly the remainder of the Italian armies may rally, the burden on the three Allies, Great Britain, France, and the United States, has increased immeasurably. They are sending troops immediately to Italy's assistance, and must continue to send them until the invader is driven back and his armies are defeated. The news becomes no more favourable when we hear that the Germans have not been able to take many troops from the West. Nothing is gained now by discussing whether the Allies were wise in deciding to concentrate their most powerful armies in France and Belgium. The possibility of attacking Austria from the East was gone when the British Government decided not to send reinforcements to the Dardanelles. The Italian army with technical assistance was thought capable of attacking Austria from the south, and no doubt would have been even after the Russian revolution, if the army had stood firm. The three Allies will now have to fight on Italian soil, not aggressively, but in defence, and to continue to press their offensive in France and Belgium. There can be no shadow of doubt that this disaster will ultimately be retrieved. It will evoke again that courage against disappointment which has carried the Allies successfully through the past three years. But it must inevitably prolong the war. It must mean that those belligerents who saw a triumphant end to their hardships must prepare for further sacrifices. Our own lesson needs no demonstration. The Prime Minister is faced with the disaster to the allied cause which he declared was the condition of another referendum. The Australian people must accept conscription, or else admit that they as a nation have ceased to take part in the war. We can dismiss from our minds all hope of an immediate peace with Germany. The German people are now filled with the hope of seeing their influence dominate the Continent of Europe and the Mediterranean. Their army has suffered, but it has given the nation a reminder of the exultation of its first victories. We shall look to the Italian army to revive and to drive the enemy from the national soil, but we shall be prepared to find our own burdens increased and the end of our anxieties postponed for many months.

PUTTING THE HOUSE IN ORDER

With the adjournment of the State Parliament till after the New Year the Government will have at least three months in which to ponder the difficulties in which it has been cast by the war. Mr. Holman's return will give the Ministers as a whole the opportunity of discussing these in the light of the latest knowledge; for the Premier has not only been to London, and lived for a time in the very shadow of war, he has come home through America and no doubt has been in close touch with American finance while scrutinising a great nation preparing for war—indeed actually at war in France, with its men now in the front-line trenches. No one in Australia at the moment has been given more opportunities for reaching the truth all round; and probably Mr. Holman has returned a sadder and a wiser man. The Government from now onward, therefore, must be prepared to work out a strong policy in which economy and a sound initiative will be prominent features. It must stick to its last. New South Wales has plenty to think about in the war without trenching upon Commonwealth responsibilities; and while it is true that in some things the State holds powers and resources which must be used for the Commonwealth as concerned in carrying on the war, everything must be done in close co-operation. We have already asked how far Commonwealth and State are co-operating in the matter of settling our returned soldiers on the land. Five thousand of them are to be provided for by New South Wales—which is a fifth of the number who have notified their wish to settle down as primary producers if they return—and this will represent the ultimate expenditure of something like seven millions sterling. Clearly unless there is going to be hearty co-operation in this business the whole thing will break down, for the State will be hopelessly handicapped if it attempts to go alone. Moreover it is a Commonwealth responsibility; and the readiness of the State to help ought to be a vindication of Federal activity, not its condemnation. Mr. Holman, with his new knowledge and wider grasp, should now show that he and Mr. Hughes can work amicably together, otherwise one will neutralise the other and nothing will get done.

In urging that the State Government must be prepared to keep strictly within the limits of its own duties we feel strongly that in these alone there may be more than Ministers can manage. The recent strike has shown how seriously we are handicapped on the industrial side by lack of conscience in many workers and by mounting costs in running Government departments and State enterprises. With firm handling the mischief has been disclosed; and public opinion has been expressed in strong terms upon the iniquity and the inequity of a wholesale slowing down in public and private employment. But the war is putting such pressure upon us that economy will have to be practised directly with determination and consistency. The transfer of the unemployed from centres of population where they are not wanted to the country where help is badly needed, will have to be faced eventually with the same courage and resource as were shown in 1893. Then everybody had been living in a fool's paradise. A land boom had made people rich on paper; and its bursting had brought them to the ground with their paper wealth scattered and in many cases worthless. The only remedy was to get back to realities, and out of the disorders of the time came the greatest period of development of the primary industries we have known. It is not suggested here that the foundations are again unsound, or that private finance is once more like an inflated paper bag—depending upon nothing better than air for its appearance of solidity. The truth is far otherwise, for as a community we are undoubtedly on good foundations; and with good leadership and the display of common sense among all classes, there is nothing to fear. But we have undoubtedly been depending both in the years before the war and since upon borrowed money. Now, as in 1893, we have to look to our own resources; and in addition everybody has to find money, and go on finding it, for the Commonwealth in its financing of the war. Whether we like it or not, Mr. Holman's return cannot inaugurate another spell of happy-go-lucky spending. It must be the beginning of a new order. The State has to put its house in order. Ministers have to face the sternest rigour of a thrift campaign, and, like charity, this will have to begin at home. State administration, and the machinery of State enterprises, are not being run on sound business lines partly because of our politics in the past, but largely because of hesitancy among Ministers in the present. Where is economy to begin? How are we to get back to bedrock again? These are the problems for Mr. Holman to solve, and the strike in his absence has given the Government a lead.

GLOUCESTER BY-ELECTION.

When the electors of Gloucester actually come to the point of casting their votes they will have to ask themselves whether their interests can be served by any candidate who is not wholly with the Nationalist Government in the present war crisis. A purely side-issue is being raised by Mr. Price's candidature in that he poses as one fighting for a principle which has nothing to do with the war, and which on investigation proves to be no principle at all. That is to say he has been turned out of Parliament because he was found guilty, after due inquiry before a Royal Commission, of having slandered a Minister of the Crown. This was not slander through inadvertence, nor was it done once and so let pass. It was repeated and flagrant. Mr. Price now claims that he had not made charges on personal grounds but on broad national lines. The principle he stands for is the liberty to attack anybody and everybody as long as he is ready to plead that he is a new nationalist. His liberty is license, and his nationalism effrontery and selfishness. Parliament can have no room for such members if it is to preserve its self-respect and the respect of the electorates, and the electors of Gloucester should certainly rally to the true nationalism represented by the Government. There ought to be no time for the sham nationalism preached by Mr. Price. The electorate cannot afford to be disfranchised in any case. Country districts have done their duty by the war nobly in the main; and there is no room in Parliament in these times for doubtful or dangerous members. The Opposition has its place, but Mr. Price apparently does not pose as an extremist in Labour politics even to win votes. As an Independent he has been neither fish, flesh, nor good red herring; and his free lance adventures have simply landed him outside of Parliament altogether. There he ought to stay. Mr. L. O. Martin, the Nationalist candidate, however, will represent a definite win-the-war policy. He is a man with full knowledge of the electorate's needs; but he is also a man who can see that unless New South Wales stands solid in this war there are going to be some hopeless problems in the not far distant future. The Government has shown its quality during the recent strike, and the country has come to the city in no uncertain way to back up Ministers in their fight against revolutionary unionism. Now it is reasonable to ask an important country electorate like Gloucester to show its appreciation of the settlement of the strike, and of the Government's part in it, by returning the selected Nationalist candidate—selected by itself.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, attended by General Finn (private secretary) visited Liverpool camp yesterday morning.

His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, accompanied by Lady Cullen, and attended by General Finn (private secretary) presided at the annual general meeting of the Royal Shipwreck Relief and Humane Society of New South Wales, at the Town Hall last evening. Lady Cullen distributed the awards granted by the society.

The Minister for Defence, Senator Pearce, will leave Melbourne this afternoon for Sydney, where he will address a recruiting meeting at the Town Hall to-morrow night. The following day he will visit the A.I.F. and Internment camps at Liverpool. Friday will be devoted to departmental affairs in Sydney; and in the evening the Minister will leave for the Royal Military College at Duntroon, returning to Melbourne on Monday.

Mr. W. A. Holman, Premier of New South Wales, will be welcomed by his colleagues in Sydney to-day. His tour abroad has embraced England, Ireland, and America.

Dr. Thomas Ewing has returned to Sydney from London. He went to England in August, 1915, with the object of being attached to the Imperial army. He joined the R.A.M.C., and was sent to Egypt. While at the 31st General Hospital he became very ill, and was sent back to London as a cot case. Owing to the effects of the illness he received his discharge, and accepted a position at Edinburgh Infirmary. He obtained his F.R.C.S.E., thus completing a distinguished scholastic career, which includes B.A., B.Sc., and M.B. of Sydney University. En route to Australia he went to New York and had valuable experience at several great hospitals. He is a brother of Mr. Robert Ewing, recently appointed commissioner for Federal Taxation.

The death occurred yesterday at the residence of her daughter (Mrs. Russell Clark, Rupertswood, Sunbury, Victoria), of Mrs. Nina Mackenzie, widow of the late Colonel H. Douglas Mackenzie. The body will be taken to Sydney by the express leaving on Tuesday, and the funeral will take place at the Waverley Cemetery on Wednesday on the arrival of the Melbourne train.

SHIPBUILDING.

VICTORIAN UNIONS READY.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The secretary of the Shipbuilding Trades Federation (Mr. O'Halloran) has forwarded a letter to the Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) on behalf of his federation, requesting the Government to proceed with the construction of vessels in Victoria as early as possible, in view of the fact that the great majority of the unions in Victoria have practically adopted the proposals of the Prime Minister in regard thereto.

25,000 SHORT.

RECRUITING FIGURES

A SERIOUS SITUATION.

Professor Macintyre, the chairman of the State Recruiting Committee, who has just returned from Melbourne, stated yesterday that the war situation and the conditions of recruiting in Australia presented a contrast which could not be viewed with equanimity by any person in the Commonwealth. There was no justification for the easy assumption that we could be ready to throw up our hats for victory.

On the eastern front, continued the chairman, Germany was doing pretty much as she liked, and when she liked, and it was manifest to all that for all practical purposes Russia was eliminated as an active factor in the war. We should ask ourselves what that meant, in the light of our own great expectations at the beginning of the war, when we talked loudly about "the Russian steam-roller." We could not but rejoice at the splendid fighting qualities of the British and French troops on the western front, and the successes they had recently gained were real and full of promise for the future. In these successes Australia had borne a worthy part, yet while we talked about the exhaustion of Germany's reserves, she evidently regarded the situation on the western front so confidently that she had transferred an enormous proportion of her troops and fighting material from the Russian front—not against the British and French—but in Southern Europe against the Italians. It would be folly to say that in the face of this war situation Germany was on the point of collapse. As a matter of fact, she commanded the whole east of Europe, and was seriously threatening a successful invasion of Italy.

Australia, he added, must view her share in the war in the light of these facts, and it would be worse than useless—it would be absolutely unpatriotic—to slur over the fact that in this desperate hour of the Allies' peril Australia was sending fewer and fewer reinforcements. The Government had laid it down that 7000 men a month was the quota required to keep our divisions at the front up to strength. Though every effort had been made to accomplish this, and while recognising that the success attained had been considerable, the facts were that, based on this requirement, we were 25,000 men short at the end of last September. Since then the disastrous industrial upheaval had overshadowed the great interest of this world-war, and more recently the Commonwealth had not supplied even 50 per cent. of its quota. Indeed, at the present moment New Zealand was sending more men to the front as reinforcements to her division than we were sending to make up the wastage of a force nominally five times greater.

Concluding his remarks, the chairman said that it was absolutely necessary for Australia to realise the seriousness of the situation, and whither we were drifting. Whatever pledges were given by political parties, Australia's pledge, consecrated in the blood of her noblest, was "the last man and the last shilling." That was Australia's pledge overshadowing all else.

RETURNED SURGEON.

COLONEL FIASCHI'S EXPERIENCES.

Surgeon-Colonel T. H. Fiaschi, the well-known Sydney surgeon, who has been on active service abroad, has returned to Australia. Colonel Fiaschi left Australia in command of No. 3 Australian General Hospital.

In the course of an interesting conversation Colonel Fiaschi said that from London the hospital unit went to the island of Lemnos, just off the Dardanelles, and did considerable good work. The hospital was splendidly equipped, in fact, he had not seen a better. When he left they had 1250 patients in the hospital.

In November last Colonel Fiaschi was seized with a peculiar disease, which paralysed him, and the doctors diagnosed it as beri beri, which is common among the north-eastern races. The disease resulted partly from dysentry and partly from the tinned food and the lack of fresh vegetables. Colonel Fiaschi was sent to London on a hospital ship, and remained for 85 days in the Wandsworth General Hospital, of which he speaks very highly. He eventually completely recovered all his lost power, and in February was granted six weeks' furlough. On returning he was passed as medically fit for duty, and was anxious to get back to his unit. In the meantime, however, the command had been given to another officer. He applied for other positions, but at the end of three months he became tired of idleness and of being in London. He asked General Howse to come to a decision, and he was offered a position on Salisbury Plain, with the duties of captain. Colonel Fiaschi, considering his surgical and military experience did not fit in with the sort of work offered him, declined the position, and asked to be allowed to return to Australia. He went to Italy to bring back his wife and child, and arrived there just after the great Austrian advance in the Trentino. He was informed that surgeons were urgently wanted at the front, and he decided to give his help to the wounded of his native country. He sent in his resignation with the A.I.F., sank his rank, and went as captain in charge of the surgical department, No. 73 Hospital, at Schio, near the Trentino frontier, about 12 kilometres from the trenches. There he remained for 12 months.

"During the first five months at Schio," said Colonel Fiaschi, "we had a great deal of surgical work to do. There were many wounded to be attended to. The work of bringing the wounded back from the front lines was well organised. Our hospital was at the foot of the mountain, and the men had to be brought down from the mountains to us. This work was generally done under cover of darkness, so as to escape enemy shells. But the brave stretcher-bearers never wavered in their work. Then the fortune of war turned, and fighting became slack, both sides contenting themselves with remaining on the defensive. The big actions then took place on the Isonzo. In the last few months I found surgical work at Schio had been reduced to insignificant proportions, and decided to return to Australia.

Colonel Fiaschi left there on August 21. During the last six months at Schio Mrs. Fiaschi, his wife, served with him in the same hospital as a sister of the Italian Red Cross. Colonel Fiaschi's son is also on active service. He recently returned from France, and is now at Bulford, on Salisbury Plain, where he holds a position in the Australian Dermatological Hospital.

INSPECTION OF TROOPS.

LIVERPOOL, Monday.

The Lieutenant-Governor, Sir William Cullen, accompanied by the State Commandant, Brigadier-General Lee, and Brigadier-General Finn (private secretary) visited Liverpool military encampment this morning. He made an inspection on Moorbank-avenue of a large body of troops, and afterwards there was a march past in review order. The Lieutenant-Governor later made an inspection of the camp.

THE "SYDNEY MAIL."

Prominence is given in this week's "Mail" to the transcontinental railway. The illustrations include photographs taken during the construction of the line, and a map showing the route from Port Augusta to Kalgoorlie. The notable "Tropical Australia" series of photographs is continued, with some striking pictures, recalling a number of murders of Europeans by the savages of the far north. There is a page of illustrations in connection with the Murray River floods, and there are also fine photographs of scenes in the N.S.W. north coast district. The public schools' sports and the scouts' gathering in Sydney are pictorially dealt with, as also is the recent patriotic carnival at Pratten Park, Ashfield. There is an interesting study of Mr. G. S. Beeby, Minister for Labour and Industry, under the title "One of the Strong Men of the N.S.W. Cabinet." As usual, there are numerous illustrations from the front, and there is a striking group of Australian airmen, many of whom are now doubtless included in the squadrons at work on the Western front.

ENEMY WITHIN.

ANTI-GERMAN CAMPAIGN.

APPEAL TO GOVERNMENT.

The keynote of speeches at a largely-attended meeting in the Town Hall yesterday, under the auspices of the Anti-German League, was the need for awakening to, and reducing to a state of impotency, what were regarded as the immense powers for evil of enemy influence within our midst.

The meeting had been arranged to be held in the vestibule of the Town Hall, but long before the hour fixed for it that part of the building was crowded, and hundreds of people unable to get inside blocked the doorways. The fact that the main hall was empty, while many people were unable to get even within reach of the doors of the vestibule, led to a clamour for an adjournment to the larger building. It was explained that preparations had been made in the hall itself for a meeting the same night, but the feeling of many of those inside the vestibule and outside was such that they pressed forward into the hall. Amidst the uproar came the announcement that the meeting would be held in the big hall, and it was the signal for a wild rush.

The Lord Mayor (Alderman R. D. Meagher, M.L.C.) presided. Others on the platform included the patron of the Anti-German League (Sir Joseph Carruthers, M.L.C.), the president of the Chamber of Manufactures (Mr. W. T. Willington), Mr. J. Lane Mullins, M.L.C., the president of the Anti-German League (Mr. W. E. J. Weller), and others prominently connected with it, including Mr. W. Weeks (described as the originator of it), Dr. Arthur, and Mr. C. W. Oakes, Ms.L.A., members of several of the suburban councils, and the secretary of the N.S.W. Hosiery Manufacturers' Association (Mr. A. C. Hughes).

From the Acting Premier the following letter of apology was received:—"I regret exceedingly that in consequence of the extreme pressure of public business I am unable to be with you this afternoon. Will you, in the circumstances, please apologise for me? The deputation will take some time yet. I will be glad if you will announce that I am in sympathy with the object of the meeting. Last Friday night I brought it prominently before the Hon. J. Cook, M.P., at a public meeting."

"TOO LONG DELAYED."

The Lord Mayor said the meeting was the outcome of a requisition, signed by a number of petitioners, and presented by the Anti-German League. The meeting was asked to express an opinion in regard to a matter too long delayed. (Applause.) The fact that the vestibule was all too small for the meeting was some indication of the public feeling which the matter had aroused. He did not for a moment suggest that they had met that afternoon in any panic-stricken spirit, but if the Anti-German League changed its title to something like the National Vigilance League they would have a bigger ambit of operations, for the last three years of war had proved that gold could corrupt men even outside of those of German birth. Citizens in every town and municipality in New South Wales should be banded together to take observations of any suspicious movements of people, and have them recorded by a central executive, in order that the authorities could do their duty. (Applause.) At the same time, any movement to take everybody of German birth and intern all was open to argument. Take, for instance, those who came here when they were two or three years of age, and who had descendants who had fallen gallantly on the side of the Allies. Again, he held a letter from an Australian woman, whose two sons had fallen at Gallipoli. She was a woman of Australian birth, although her husband was of German birth. Generally, however, they should have a Vigilance Committee in order to help to see that, where necessary, people could be placed in a position where they could do no harm whatever. (Applause.)

VIGOROUS POLICY DEMANDED.

Sir Joseph H. Carruthers, M.L.C., moved the first resolution, which read:—

> "That this meeting of citizens of Sydney respectfully urges the Federal Government to exercise to the utmost all its powers to protect life and property on land and sea from attacks by enemies and disloyalists. And this meeting pledges itself to support the Government in a vigorous policy in this matter."

They were not there, he said, to find fault with what the Federal authorities had done. They knew what was happening in Australia. Some of their ships had been sunk off their own shores; a number of fires had been discovered in our ships, and one ship had gone, they knew not how. They knew that the enemy had done its work; they knew the enemy had sacrificed life and property. That was a solid fact. They intended to ask the Federal Government to do all in its power to exercise its authority against these enemies. And if it did so every loyal man and woman in the country would be behind it. (Cheers.) When the war broke out there were 2000 unnaturalised Germans in New South Wales and 4000 naturalised. In the first year of the war the Government permitted 660 full-blooded Germans to be naturalised in New South Wales alone. (Cries of "Shame.") Even last year 28 full-blooded Germans were naturalised. How could they naturalise an enemy? (Cheers.) The law forbade them to trade with the enemy; then, why did the Government have dealings with the enemy by naturalising its subjects? (Cheers.) He had no time for a German. He was fighting us; he hated us, and he would destroy us if he could. He would not take a German by the hand, nor take him to the bosom of his family. He might as well take a viper to his breast. (Cheers.) In 1914, of all the aliens of the world, 1327 were naturalised in New South Wales. Then, how came it to pass that half of them were Germans? ("Shame.") Not a single Bulgarian had been naturalised up to 1914, but then for the first time they permitted eight Bulgarians to be naturalised. During the last nine years 2000 Germans had been naturalised in New South Wales.

THE FIGHT AT HOME.

The president of the Chamber of Manufactures (Mr. W. T. Willington) said, that the position was serious admitted of no question. It was a position which had been growing in seriousness, and the question was—What were they going to do? There was some factor at work sufficient to influence people to an inaction which was nothing but the inaction of a traitor to his land. What was all our work in the cause of the Empire to count for if there was to be intriguing? The longer it was allowed to make itself manifest the harder it would be to root the evil out. (Applause.) They had to fight here just as hard as they had to fight in Flanders if they were to achieve those results which were necessary.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

Mr. C. W. Oakes, M.L.A., moved—

> "That all efforts should be made to strengthen the hands of the authorities in the task of combating the activities of enemy agents in our midst; and an active campaign should be undertaken by all loyal citizens to destroy all opportunity for Germans and other enemies, or their 'tools' or sympathisers in Australia, injuring British or Allied interests during the war."

Alderman Sautelle, in seconding the resolution, said that they had too long delayed in this matter. What did it matter if they interned 4000 innocent Germans so long as they got them all out of the way of doing harm. (Applause.)

Alderman A. Ogilvy, Mayor of Manly, moved an addendum.—"That, in the opinion of this meeting, all enemy aliens should be interned." (Cheers.) They did not want to deal with this matter with kid gloves on. He referred to the treatment of Australian prisoners in Germany, and asked whether they should still permit enemies to walk at liberty. He touched on the action being taken by New Zealand in regard to aliens, and urged that we should follow this legislation. Why should the boys who had fought on the blood-stained hills of Gallipoli and on the blood-sodden fields of Flanders on their return have to see Germans walking free about the streets of Sydney? It should not be permitted. (Cheers.)

The motion and the addendum were both carried amid prolonged cheering.

Mr. W. E. J. Weller, president of the Anti-German League, moved:—

> "That a deputation wait upon the Minister for Defence, and place before him the resolution arrived at."

Mr. T. Hogan, treasurer of the league, seconded the resolution, and said that the German prisoners here should be made to clear and prepare the land for our returned soldiers. (Applause.) The league was out to have all Germans watched.

The resolution was carried.

The singing of the National Anthem closed the proceedings.

WAR TIME IN LONDON.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

The Tragedy of Russia.

LONDON, Sept. 11.

By this time we had quite given up hope of Russia as an effective fighting agent in the immediate future of the war; but we were unprepared for the swift drama of this week. Anything was likely to happen, of course, in a confusion so confounded by the thousand-and-one warring factions, but with the Commander-in-Chief in open rebellion against the Government, and actually marching upon Petrograd with a revolutionary army at his back, the worst seemed to be disclosing itself with unlooked-for and tragic rapidity. Korniloff's move followed hard upon the loss of Riga, and the Moscow Conference, where the fall of Riga was quite obviously in view. The demand of the Commander-in-Chief for drastic reorganisation of army methods and unsparing severity against army traitor, to the fighting cause was resisted by Kerensky for reasons never very clear to us in London, and never yet fully explained, and only capable of explanation and understanding under the full light of that publicity which is so rigidly withheld. If we knew more of the seething turbulence of the Russian position, we should be better able to understand why Kerensky prefers to follow the demands of the extremists of the Soviet rather than the appeals of the best of the army. At all events, his refusal to appease Korniloff has been met by the present crisis, which exceeds in gravity all that has gone before, and we have been astounded by the spectacle of a commander-in-chief calling upon the Premier to resign and claiming his right to save Russia by his own dictatorship. Events have been rapid and stirring. Their progress has been made known to the world only partially, however, and even now, when we are told that Korniloff's revolt has collapsed, and that Kerensky not only holds the support of most of Russia, but is dismissing general after general in complete confidence of the future, we are obliged to doubt if all is as it is said to be. For the Government, we remember, has complete control of the country's news systems, and nothing that is not favourable to the Government's case has the least chance of being noised abroad. So we await the days to come in hope of what they may bring of enlightenment, and we try to puzzle out the hopeless tangle of a problem in respect of which we are told at one moment that Korniloff's attempt is really an attempt by the reactionary forces to re-establish themselves, at the next moment that it is a revolt by the middle classes in favour of the revolution as against the extremists who are wrecking it and the country with it, and presently, again, that it is neither the one nor the other. The only thing at all clear in the matter is that Russia is involved in catastrophe of the worst order on her own account, and can be of little future service to the Allies.

The Malcolm Case.

The Malcolm case, a cause celebre which has excited us for some time past, and which had its culmination of excitement at the Old Bailey a day or two ago, has ended in a verdict of "not guilty" and the acquittal of the prisoner. That result was received in court with loud cheers from the spectators there, while by some hundreds of waiting people outside it was welcomed with a tumult that might have signalled the ending of the war. The case was simple enough. Lieutenant Malcolm's "young, beautiful, and luxurious" wife, as she was described at the trial by Sir John Simon, counsel for the defence, was discovered by her husband to be entangled in an intrigue with a certain bogus Count, who seems really to have been one Anton Baumberg, an individual of shady antecedents in this matter of too complaisant women. Finding the couple together, Lieutenant Malcolm thrashed the so-called Count, and later, invaded the latter's bedroom in Porchester-place and shot him dead, surrendering himself shortly afterwards to the police. The case was from the first of absorbing public interest, on account of the fact that a British officer was concerned in it, that his wife was of more than ordinary attractiveness, and that Baumberg was believed to have deserved his fate. The prisoner was defended with outstanding ability, Sir John Simon's address to the jury on his behalf being an especially weighty and skilful effort, and after very brief consultation, and despite some pointed remarks by the learned Judge as to the so-called "unwritten law" and its total lack of authority in a British court of justice, the jury returned the verdict stated. We are not altogether pleased about it. We all wanted to see Lieutenant Malcolm lightly treated, and we all approved his method of handling a blackguard of Baumberg's type. But we are afraid that a verdict of "not guilty" is scarcely justice. Only towards the end, and then half-heartedly, was there any attempt to suggest resistance by the dead man—talk of a pistol and a struggle by him to get possession of it—while on the other hand there was no denying that Malcolm went to him with intent to kill. In face of these things, the verdict of "not guilty" looks like sentiment pure and simple, and a dangerous concession on the part of British law in respect of murder or manslaughter.

Captain Collins Retires.

Captain Muirhead Collins, official secretary to the High Commissioner, retires from the Public Service at the end of this month. He has been attached to the Commonwealth Office in London since its opening, and it is well known that his work prior to the appointment of the first High Commissioner went a long way towards making the way smooth for Sir George Reid's entrance upon his duties. More than that, and apart from the continuously valuable work done by Captain Collins, he has always been an official of kindly and approachable type, ready whenever he could do so to supply all the information asked of him. And not least as in regard to the representatives in London of Australian newspapers, all of whom are sorry to be parting from him, and who next week will assure him of that, and make him a small presentation in token of their esteem of him.

Food Economy Again.

Lord Rhondda is admittedly doing great work in the direction of lowering the cost of food commodities to the consuming public. But he is not on that account satisfied. On the contrary, he is afraid that the public, finding itself with a greater spending capacity than before, will increase rather than reduce its food consumption, and that way, as Lord Rhondda now specifically warns us, shortage and disaster threaten. In the "National Food Journal" this week, newly issued by the Ministry of Food, and to be published twice monthly, among a mass of interesting information as to our food position it is stated that "the United States and Canada have a wheat deficit of 400 million bushels in the amount required from North America for the Allies and for European neutrals, and Americans have been asked to reduce their consumption of flour by one pound a week. In view of the great efforts made to emphasise the vital need of economy it is disappointing to find how slight has been the fall in consumption of flour in this country during the last two months, notwithstanding the abundant supply of potatoes. We can scarcely expect Americans to save a pound of flour a week for the purpose of helping us if we are unable to save half a pound in order to help ourselves. . . . It is not a question of importing increased supplies or of dealing effectively with the submarine menace; the supplies are not there for us to bring in, and if we do not reduce our consumption voluntarily some method of compulsion will have to be exercised sooner or later."

EMPEROR OF JAPAN.

To-morrow, the 31st inst., is the date of the official celebration of the birthday of His Majesty the Emperor of Japan. His Majesty was born on August 31, 1879, but, for various reasons, the official celebration of his birthday takes place two months later. His Majesty is now in his 39th year. Since the outbreak of the war the customary official morning levee at the Consulate-General in honour of the Imperial birthday has not been held, and it will not be held to-morrow.

ITALIAN REVERSE

ENEMY BREAKS THROUGH

UNITS REFUSE BATTLE

LONDON, Oct. 28.

An Italian official report received by wireless states:—

The failing resistance of some of the units forming the Second Army, retiring in cowardice without fighting, or surrendering, allowed the Austro-Germans to penetrate our left wing on the Julian front.

The valiant efforts of the other troops were unable to prevent the enemy advancing into Italy's sacred soil.

We are withdrawing our line according to a plan prepared.

All stores and depots in the evacuated places were destroyed.

The record of so many memorable battles successfully fought by our brave soldiers in two and a half years' war is sufficient to assure the Commander-in-Chief that the army to which the country's honour and safety are confided will know how to fulfil its duty.

AUSTRO-GERMAN CLAIMS.

A German official communique on Sunday stated: The rapid development of our united attack on the Isonzo was entirely successful on Saturday. A powerful thrust threw back the Italians seeking to prevent us emerging from the mountains. We entered Cividale, which was burning.

The Austro-Germans took Gorizia early this morning.

The prisoners now number 80,000 and the captured guns 600.

An official report from Vienna received in Amsterdam states: The Austrians have occupied Gorizia. The Italians have withdrawn across the Isonzo.

ITALY'S GRIM ORDEAL.

War correspondents, telegraphing from Rome, are unanimously of opinion that the Austro-German offensive will mean a fight to a finish, because Germany is determined to seek a political victory over Italy's stubborn resistance to German pacificist activities. Germany is aiming at the disruption of the Entente, and planned an offensive on a tremendous scale. Troops and transports for weeks have been pouring from the Balkans and from Russia, which fronts are now almost stripped of armies. They include some of the finest German troops. All are well equipped with artillery and machine-guns.

The latest bulletins indicate that the Italians have not yet stemmed the assaults.

London military critics admit that the offensive is a grim ordeal for Italy, and it may be necessary to come speedily to her aid, especially with artillery reinforcements.

ENEMY'S STRENGTH.

GROSSLY EXAGGERATED.

It is authoritatively reported that the reinforcements said to have recently arrived on the Italian front are grossly exaggerated. As far as is known only five German divisions are on the Isonzo front, of which only three have been definitely identified by the Italians as participating in the attack. Possibly another German division has arrived, but as far as is known it did not engage in the attack. Two out of the five above-mentioned divisions came from the Western front, where they suffered heavily at the hands of the British, and where they were replaced by two divisions from Russia. The German strength on the Western front, therefore, is undiminished. Indeed it has been increased by two divisions since August 1.

The remainder of the German reinforcements on the Italian front were transferred from Russia and from Roumania.

Regarding the Austrian reinforcements, only two Austrian divisions are known to have arrived on the Italian front in the last month, but possibly two others recently arrived, though they are not yet identified.

The total reinforcements, therefore, which are known to have arrived on the Italian front amount only to seven divisions, and the enemy's success is entirely due to the presence of from three to five German divisions, who attacked on the Plezzo-Tolmino front.

FLANDERS.

ANGLO-FRENCH GAINS

TOWARDS PASSCHENDAELE.

LONDON, Oct. 28.

The Australian and New Zealand armies are delighted with the success of the Canadians upon the heavy Passchendaele slopes, where they fought a fortnight ago. Conditions for battle have not improved since the great attack of the 12th, but the Canadians brought up their guns, a laborious but necessary work, which enabled them to make a more complete bombardment of numerous strong posts, which gave trouble to the Australian and New Zealanders.

The communiques show that the Canadians were determined to take no chances. They pounded the enemy's defences mercilessly in preparation for a sweeping infantry assault. Already the Canadians are in strong force within sniping distance of Passchendaele Village. Australians and New Zealanders from almost the same points looked forward hopefully on the 12th, but the weather, coupled with a tornado shell-fire and machine-gun fire, prevented them reaching Passchendaele.

The Paris newspaper, the "Petit Parisien," says the Canadians and the British made a fine thrust at Passchendaele and Polderhoek. The Germans generally fought well.

A manuscript found on a German non-com., signed by a colonel, promised 100 marks for every enemy captured alive and 25 marks for every dead body.

OFFICIAL REPORTS.

Sir Douglas Haig's report at noon on Sunday stated: We improved our positions slightly at night-time in the neighbourhood of the Ypres-Roulers railway.

The Belgians on Friday night made a successful raid northward of Dixmude, taking 16 prisoners; and yesterday, jointly with the French, crossed the inundations and occupied the Merckj peninsula, in the neighbourhood of Vijfhuezen.

A French communique issued at midnight on Saturday, stated: The attack in Belgium began at 5.15 a.m., and was completely successful. The French on both sides of the Ypres-Dixmude Road carried all the German positions on a front of four kilometres, to an average depth of two kilometres. Despite the stubborn resistance of the enemy, who suffered the heaviest losses, we reached the western border of Houthulst Forest, and carried the villages of Verdrenesmis, Ashoot, Merken, and Kippe, also numerous solidly fortified farms, capturing a hundred prisoners.

We made fresh progress on the Aisne front, from Chevrigny, and occupied Froidment Farm.

FRENCH PUSH ON.

A French communique on Sunday afternoon stated: We made continued progress in Belgium on our left in the peninsula of Luighem, and captured some small islands. Since yesterday we have taken over 200 prisoners.

GERMAN STATEMENT.

A German official communique states: The enemy reattacked south-westward of Houthulst Wood, gaining no greater advantage than before.

The French, deeply echeloned, were sanguinarily repulsed eastward of Pilain and north-westward of Braye.

FRATERNISING.

STOPPED BY ARTILLERY.

A Russian official communique states: Our artillery dispersed several scores of men fraternising with the Germans in the region of Illukst.

U.S.A. SOLDIERS.

IN FRONT LINE TRENCHES

WITH FRENCH COMRADES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.

The American Headquarters in France announces that troops have been sent to a quiet sector on the French front in continuation of their training as a nucleus for the instruction of later contingents. They are satisfactorily adapting themselves.

The first American Headquarters communique issued on Saturday states: Some of our battalions, in continuation of their training, with a view to training future contingents, have occupied first-line trenches on the French front. The day was calm. We are supported by seasoned French soldiers and Franco-American artillery.

The Americans fired the first shot at 6 o'clock this morning. Intermittent artillery fighting has since occurred.

The Washington correspondent of the "New York Times" says the troops have been placed in the trenches for observation and training. This cannot be regarded as the real beginning of American participation in the fighting. They will later be replaced by other contingents in order to accustom the whole of the troops to conditions in the trenches, the danger zone, and the shock of shell-fire.

The correspondent of the United Press Agency at the American Headquarters in France says: The "Sammies" are fighting in the trenches alongside the poilus. The greatest cameraderie exists. The infantry restlessly awaited orders to advance from a village, and marched through the streets at nightfall. Some sang in an undertone "Tipperary." The Americans are filled with enthusiasm. The case of the first shell fired has been sent to President Wilson.

UNITED STATES.

THE LIBERTY LOAN.

Indescribable enthusiasm is manifested over the Liberty Loan. The banks have utilised all their employees as bondsellers. Others sold bonds in the rainswept streets to waiting and cheering crowds. Throughout the night thousands of people telegraphed subscriptions.

The New York district has subscribed a total of more than £300,000,000, of which 20 banks contributed more than £3,000,000 each, Guaranty Trust alone subscribing £21,000,000.

Thirteen million buttons were distributed by bondbuyers.

Mr. McAdoo (Secretary to the Treasury) says the loan is an overwhelming success.

Later details show that the Liberty Loan is a huge success. Subscriptions exceed £1,000,000,000.

IRISH HOME RULE.

EXPERIMENT SUGGESTED.

There is much discussion regarding a suggestion that the Irish Convention should be permitted to appoint the Viceroy's Administrative Council, which is to act in an advisory capacity, also to exercise such executive powers as the Government may grant. It is pointed out that the existing atmosphere of tolerance would be an opportune moment for the immediate experiment of Home Rule.

Some newspapers declare that the Provisional Government must have Parliamentary sanction, which will be a lengthy business; whereas the convention, if not disturbed, will probably produce an agreed scheme by Christmas.

SPANISH CABINET.

In connection with the resignation of the Spanish Cabinet, the Prime Minister (Senor Dato) explains that as the King desired to consult various politicians on the situation he thought he did not possess the Sovereign's confidence. Therefore he resigned.

THE AUSTRALIANS.

FIVE MAGNIFICENT UNITS.

RECORD OF BATTLES.

Mr. C. E. W. Bean, official correspondent with the A.I.F. in Flanders, telegraphing on Saturday, stated:—Now that the whole of the Australian force in France has been in battle, together with the First and Second Anzac Corps, fighting beside one another for the first time since their formation, it is at last possible to give Australians some idea of the record of these magnificent divisions, which they are maintaining oversea.

The First Australian Division has to its credit a list of battles, which the oldest army in the world would be proud. They are so well known to Australians that they scarcely need be mentioned—the landing at Anzac, Lone Pine, the evacuation of Gallipoli, the taking of Pozieres and the fight through the village, winter on the Somme, the advance through to Le Bargue and Thilloy, Bouries, Demicourt, and Hermies, the repulse of the Germans at Lagnicourt, heavy trench fighting near Bullecourt, the later stage of the taking of the Hindenburg line, ending with battles by the Menin-road and Broodseinde, which were the most successful ever fought by the Australians.

The Second Division began its famous career in the heavy fighting of the 5th Brigade at Hill 60, Gallipoli. Later it held Lone Pine, Queen's Neck, divided formed the rear party at the evacuation, fought in the second and third battles on the ridge behind Pozieres, and was perhaps longer in the battle line than almost any unit on the Somme. It fought in November a battle near Wallencourt, faced out the Somme winter, and beat the Germans in the spring at Malt Trench, Bapaume, Lagnicourt, and Noreuil; helped to beat back a German attack through Lagnicourt; charged and took the Hindenburg line on May 3, and finally, with sister divisions, dealt the Germans three heavy blows at Menin-road and Broodseinde.

The Third Australian Division, which is the youngest, has already built up and carved out for itself a magnificent history. After a continuous period in the trenches during the winter, they went into battle at Messines, and carried out their task with absolute perfection, digging themselves in both there and in the latest battle line, which the British officers have told me was a model of battle work. The Third Australian Division had sharp fighting around the windmill on the first day of the great battle of Ypres, first taking it and then being driven out, and then retaking it. The division came in a great battle later when its sister divisions entered and fought beside them near Broodseinde and Passchendaele, making the biggest advance which was undertaken by any Australians. The Third Australian Division has been long since accepted as one of the finest divisions in the force.

The Fourth Australian Division, in some ways, has undertaken the hardest fighting of all. The Fourth Brigade was at the Anzac landing, and for five weeks afterwards held Quinn's and Courtney's posts, the key of the whole Anzac position, against the hardest and most continuous trench fighting the Australians have ever carried through. This brigade carried out tremendous night fighting on the far northern slopes of Sari Bair. Afterwards they attacked three times Hill 60, and took part in the evacuation. Other brigades in this division have also descended from those which fought at Anzac. Reaching France, the Fourth Division carried out the greater part of the fighting which reached Mouquet Farm, besides enduring its share in the hellish fire which preceded the German counter-attack at Pozieres. The Fourth Division took part in the Somme winter, and the attacks which ended it. They took Noreuil; then on April 11 they were thrown against the tremendously strong wire defences of the Hindenburg line—in order to turn the flank of the Germans fighting in the battle of Arras. The division was without artillery; and, though the tanks failed, they carried two Hindenburg trenches, and were only driven out when hopelessly cut off. The Fourth Division, passing through the New Zealanders who had taken Messines, held with the Third Division half the battle-line at Messines for four days' hard fighting. The Fourth Division shared with its sister divisions battles on Polygon and Broodseinde ridges.

The Fifth Australian Division is similarly formed from some of the oldest brigades which landed in Gallipoli. The latest brigade in it reached Egypt while the troops were still on the peninsula. It and the First Division went into heavy fighting in France, when three magnificent brigades charged across No Man's Land to the third German trench near Fromelles four days before Pozieres, and held out there all night, a remnant returning only when recalled in the morning. The Fifth Division faced out the winter in the Somme, and attacked the retreating Germans near Le Transloy. It occupied Bapaume, took and held Beaumuz. Against repeated attacks it held the Hindenburg line against the "cockchafers." In the battle of Polygon, where it fought alongside the others, the Fifth Division had to attack immediately after the whole flank had been confused by a counter-attack, yet it carried out the assault with the flank completely in the air, and finished it exactly as planned. No army in the world contains five more magnificent units than this Australian force which was concentrated with the New Zealanders for the first time during the battle before Ypres.

CONTINUOUS FIGHTING.

Telegraphing on Sunday night, Mr. Bean reported:—Fighting over on the flank, where portion of the Australian force has been engaged, has been on a small scale compared with the task of the Canadians beside them, but, nevertheless, it has been continuous and heavy. For a long time after the first attack, in a drenching daybreak shower, it was uncertain exactly what had happened on this part of the battlefield. The only detailed report is that from an aeroplane, which, while flying low at an early stage of the fight, saw that most of our men had reached a patch of shattered scrub, which was their objective, but others were still making for it, determined to reach it, and were gradually arriving at the place in twos and threes. The pilot, flying very low, actually saw one brave man going on by himself, enter the scrub, and bayonet two Germans. Then he was shot by some machine-gun or other. Later in the day the Germans turned on this position and neighbouring parts of the line a very fierce shell-fire. The men were driven out from the position, which appears to have been occupied yesterday by Germans. Last night some of the ground was retaken.

The Canadians and Australians report that they are again together in the position. The weather is now showery, but there was a long fine interval this morning. The guns are again very active. The thunder of artillery has been constant since dawn.

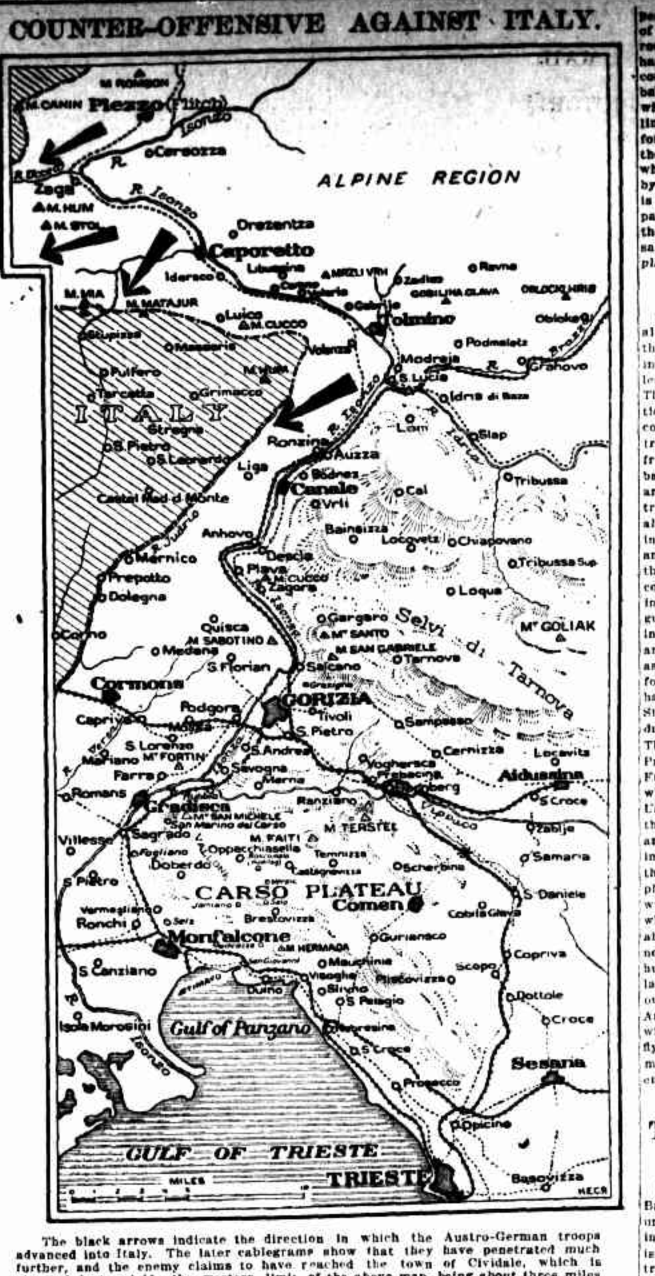
AUSTRALIAN AIRMAN'S DEATH

Naval Flight-Lieutenant Arthur Frank Brandon, aged 24, an Australian, who won the Distinguished Service Cross for bringing down a Gotha machine in England, collided with another pilot over Kent on Friday. He fell and was killed.

The other pilot gave evidence at the inquest that until he landed he was not aware that a collision had occurred, but he felt a bump under the machine and thought a portion of the engine had broken away after striking one of the wings, in which a hole appeared.

An air sentry gave evidence that Brandon was flying level when the other pilot descending struck a wing of his machine. Both of Brandon's wings then broke like a butterfly closing its wings. The aeroplane turned a somersault and crashed to the earth. Lieutenant Brandon was dead when extricated. A verdict of death by misadventure was recorded. Lieutenant Brandon was a very popular pilot.

COUNTER-OFFENSIVE AGAINST ITALY.



The black arrows indicate the direction in which the Austro-German troops advanced into Italy. The later cablegrams show that they have penetrated much further, and the enemy claims to have reached the town of Cividale, which is situated just outside the western limit of the above map, being about three miles south-west of S. Pietro. At Cividale the enemy is on the Friulian Plain, and this has weakened the whole of the Italian line to the southward. There does not seem to be reason to doubt the enemy's statement that the Italians have lost Gorizia and withdrawn across the Isonzo.

AIR WARFARE.

BRITISH ACTIVITY.

LONDON, Oct. 28.

An Admiralty report states: The naval air service on Friday night bombed Lichtervelde railway junction. Direct hits caused a heavy explosion and numerous smaller explosions. We also bombed Thourout railway junction, bombs falling near a moving train, which immediately stopped. A large explosion was observed. We also bombed Cortemarck junction.

Bombings were carried out on Saturday afternoon at Sparappelhoek and Engel aerodromes, and the Ostend-Thourout railway line southward of Engel.

Many patrols were carried out. Two enemy aircraft were driven down uncontrolled. One fell into the sea. All of ours returned safely.

REPRISAL RAIDS.

According to an Amsterdam message Berlin advices state that raids on industrial towns in Lorraine, Luxembourg, and Saar resulted in six persons being killed and ten injured. No military damage was done. Four enemy 'planes were brought down or compelled to land.

POST-WAR ARMAMENTS.

GERMAN'S PROHIBITED BOOK.

A message from Berne says that Germany has prohibited the exportation of a sensational book, entitled "Lessons From the War," by General Baron von Freytag, deputy chief of the Prussian General Staff, violently advocating immense armaments after the war as giving the only security for the future.

GERMAN INTRIGUE.

SWEDISH COLLUSION.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.

The "New York Sun's" Washington correspondent states that Mr. Lansing possesses new important disclosures of secret German activities and Swedish-German collusion. These have been withheld from publication because Argentina, presumably under German pressure, will not consent.

It is reported that the Argentine Ambassador to the United States (Dr. Naon) has been recalled.

The Buenos Ayres correspondent of the United Press Agency, commenting on the matter, states that the authorities indicate correspondence exists which has not yet been revealed, but the Government is unable now to divulge it because Congress is in recess.

NATIONAL WORKERS ATTACKED.

Disturbances took place on the wharfs at Woolloomooloo yesterday. It was reported to the police that at 7.45 a.m., at 1.40 p.m., and again at 5.15 p.m. members of the Wharf-labourers' Union interfered with national workers, jostling them as they were about to enter upon and when they were leaving their employment, and threatening them with violence. Several volunteer workers received minor injuries, but the police prevented any serious assaults. One wharf-labourer was arrested on a charge of riotous behaviour.

FRENCH REGIMENTAL DECORATION.

In our cablegrams yesterday it was announced that the Fourragere, a newly-established French regimental honour, had been conferred upon the Foreign Legion. In the French army it has long been the practice to award decorations to regiments as well as to individuals performing distinguished service, and the Fourragere was recently established as a means of recognising the unprecedented gallantry displayed in the present war. The decoration was carried in the procession through Paris on the French National Day on July 14 last. It has now been granted to three regiments, and the colours signifying it are worn on the left arms of the soldiers.

WAR NOTES.

THE ITALIAN REVERSE.

The latest news from Italy is undoubtedly serious. It would be useless to attempt to disguise the fact that the enemy has already achieved a very pronounced success. The Italian communiques do not attempt to deny this; and, although they make no reference to the loss of Gorizia or to the actual extent of the enemy's advance, they contain an ominous admission which we can safely conclude would not have been made if awkward developments were not almost certain to follow. We may be sure that no nation is likely unjustly to attribute cowardice to portion of its troops in order to explain away a serious military reverse. Italy's explanation that the penetration of the left wing of her armies on the Julian front was due to certain units in the Second Army displaying cowardice, refusing to fight, and surrendering, comes as a particularly unpleasant surprise. It explains, however, the very rapid development of the enemy's manoeuvre, and makes us hesitate to attempt to guess at the ultimate limit of his success. Exactly what this collapse of moral among certain units of the Italian Second Army was due to we have as yet no definite indication, and, in spite of the very bitter phrasing of the Italian communique, it will be well to await further information before attributing it to the same influences which resulted in the Russian collapse in Galicia recently. Much depends upon the stage of the operations when this display of cowardice occurred. If it was at the very commencement of the attack it may be possible that political influences had something to do with the weakness of moral. If it appeared during the heat of the retirement and under the pressure of the enemy a different explanation may be found. If political influences have affected the Second Army the prospect is less inviting still, as we will then have to learn whether the Second Army is the only body so affected.

DANGER TO CADORNA'S REAR.

The enemy's statement that he has entered Cividale means that he has succeeded in reaching at least the edge of the Friulian plain, and, as we have previously pointed out in these notes, his presence here is a direct menace to the Italian armies to the southward as far as the coast itself. He has certainly lost little time in pushing on to this town since he crossed the Italian border, as the journey by the main road, which crosses the frontier to the westward of Mount Matajur, is one of over ten miles. The capture of Mount Matajur was announced in the German report issued on Saturday last, so it is clear that the enemy's advance down the main valleys leading to the plain was not seriously retarded, although the country here offered facilities for defence. Cividale is only a little over nine miles from Udine, where several important strategical railways meet. Udine has been an important base behind the Italian front, and the railways which emerge from this point connect up with the Carso and Gorizia sectors, as well as the front on which the enemy is now making his drive, while one line leading northward connects up with the Italians away up towards the Carnic Alps. The enemy at Cividale is astride the railway leading to Udine, and has little or no difficult country between him and that Italian base. Almost every yard he advances here is bringing him further down on to the rear of the Italian armies between the middle Isonzo and the sea coast. He has apparently at last succeeded in achieving a fair measure of success in a direction towards which his defensive efforts against Italy have been exerted from the beginning. It is, therefore, quite likely that one of the consequences of this success has been the Italian evacuation of Gorizia and a withdrawal across the Isonzo at places as claimed by the enemy.

GORIZIA'S HILLS AND THE CARSO.

Whether the whole of this southern portion of the Italian line will have to be withdrawn or not depends largely upon the extent to which the enemy still further develops his success. The fate of Gorizia, of course, depends upon the hills which surround the town, and it is the belligerent in possession of these hills who can claim the town, which has been referred to as the key to Trieste. The Italians, although they may have evacuated the town of Gorizia, may still be in possession of those mountain peaks dominating it, the original capture of which opened the way for the Italians to move across the Isonzo into the town itself. If the enemy's advance on the plain to the north-west can be stopped in time it may still be possible for the Italians to retain some of these important mountain peaks as well as the valuable western section of the Carso plateau, further south, on the rocky surface of which so much Italian blood has been shed. Even if the enemy's advance continues, this important Carso front will probably be the last point to which the Italian withdrawal will extend, as one of the main lines of communication behind the Italian forces on the Carso plateau keeps close to the sea coast, and represents a line of retreat which is not likely to be seriously threatened by the enemy for a considerable time. There is not much doubt, however, that the greater part of the gains which Italy has achieved in the past two and a half years may have to be sacrificed unless the enemy is held up on the plain beyond Cividale.

AMERICANS IN THE TRENCHES.

The people of the United States are naturally a little excited over the announcement that American troops have actually moved up into the firing line, and that American artillery has commenced shelling the German lines. The official statements, however, are particularly careful to avoid creating any misconception as to the part which American troops are at present playing. It is clear from these announcements that only a few battalions are in the firing line, and that they are there not so much for fighting as for training purposes. The United States, like all non-military nations, must learn to walk in this war before she can attempt to charge, and we will probably have advanced well into the coming year before America's military co-operation begins to be felt. This morning's messages show that these advance guards of America's army are being supported in the trenches by seasoned French soldiers and French artillery. This may be regarded as a continuation of the policy which has been followed behind the lines where the French have been giving the troops from the United States the advantage of the experience gained during over three years of continuous warfare. The special correspondent of the Associated Press at American Field Headquarters in France referred to this French assistance when writing of the preparations which the United States army in France was making at the beginning of September last. "The army," he said, "has made its plans with imagination as well as common sense. For the time being great reliance is still being placed upon the French, whose ability and willingness to help the Americans seem wholly inexhaustible. One of the most valuable aids the French are giving us just now is lending to the Americans scores of hundreds of their German prisoners, the largest number of whom are rather strenuously engaged in preparing a remarkable American aviation camp where cantonments will be erected to accommodate 15,000 student flyers, the aviation field itself being several miles square, probably the largest in the entire European war zone."

THE LIBERTY LOAN.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

It is pointed out by the Treasury that the British Prime Minister's recent appeal for unity and national support of the war loans, in order to keep the money "in the family," is applicable to the Commonwealth. Australian credit in the money markets of the world has been enhanced considerably by the fact that she has already raised 80 million pounds in four war loans, and is just completing her fifth loan, which will place an additional 20 millions to the grand total. This has increased the financial self-reliance of the people of the Commonwealth, who have thus demonstrated their strength in the financial arena, just as our soldiers have proved their fighting qualities by land, sea, and air. Australians are keeping the money "in the family" by lending their savings to the Government for the Liberty Loan. The per capita subscription to the four previous loans was approximately £16, and even double that subscription should not be beyond the means of a prosperous community like Australia. All are appealed to by the Treasurer, Sir John Forrest, to help make the loan a success, because "money is as necessary as men," to quote Mr. Hughes's recent pronouncement on the subject. Interest is paid at the rate of 4½ per cent. free of income tax, and the fact that the Commonwealth is behind it makes the loan absolutely safe. The Treasurer hopes that a final rally will be made by all classes, so that by November 2, when the applications will close, he will be able to report that he has exceeded the 20 million pounds mark. Circumstances may prevent many from fighting, but there are few who cannot invest a little in the Liberty Loan, and in this way give practical assistance to those in the firing line.

A military concert organised by the officers and men of the Engineers and Wireless Company, Roseville, will be held in the Roseville Hall to-night in support of the Liberty Loan and war savings certificates. An interesting programme has been arranged, and a short address will be given by the officers of the Commonwealth Bank.

COAL-LUMPERS.

ACCEPT EMPLOYERS' CONDITIONS.

POSITION IN MELBOURNE.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Another step in the direction of the complete settlement of the strike was reached to-day, when the coal-lumpers expressed their willingness to return to work, on conditions satisfactory to the coal importers. The lumpers had previously stated that they were prepared to work with volunteers, but had refused to work at night time.

Nine gangs of coal-lumpers were engaged to-day to work under award conditions, as required. The men will start unloading the steamer Hexham, which is due in Melbourne to-morrow from Newcastle with 5000 tons of coal.

For eighteen months previous to the strike union coal-lumpers have stolidly refused to work overtime in the unloading of colliers, but to-day this attitude was relaxed, and shipowners were informed that the members of this section of the Waterside Workers' Federation were prepared to resume work under the terms which had been laid down by the oversea and interstate shipping interests. These terms include the working of overtime and the payment of piece work rates as specified by the Waterside Workers' Award, and do not permit of objection being raised to working alongside volunteer labour.

To-day about 200 stevedores were working on vessels with volunteers, the former working in the vessels and the latter on the wharfs. Another oversea vessel will be ready for discharging during the next few days, and the stevedores will probably work it wholly. It is estimated that 150 of the stevedores—who had been idle for 13 weeks—resumed work this morning. It is believed that within a week or two almost the whole of the men will again be working.

Members of the Melbourne branch of the Wharf-labourers' Union continue to loiter around the wharfs, but only a few have offered for work, pending the compulsory conference which has been ordered by Mr. Justice Higgins for Thursday.

The Premier (Sir Alexander Peacock), commenting on the decision of the coal-lumpers to resume work and work by the side of volunteers, said the position as to the supply of coal was becoming very serious, and it was practically certain that there would have been almost complete paralysis in the industries of Melbourne next week unless action were taken to unload steamers bringing coal from New South Wales for Victorian requirements.

ALIENS IN MINES.

BROKEN HILL, Monday.

The A.W.U., at a meeting on Sunday, carried a resolution that the P.L.L. be asked to take some action in reference to aliens being employed along the line of lode in preference to men who have had sons fall at the front.

CONCESSION FOR RETURNED SOLDIERS.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Authority has been given by the City Council for the placing in the streets of five newspaper kiosks, to be used by returned soldiers.

RAILWAY PORTER SENTENCED.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

A railway porter has been sentenced to three years' imprisonment on a charge of receiving in connection with pilfering from the railways.

LATE WAR NEWS.

DR. MICHAELIS.

LONDON, Oct. 28.

A message from Amsterdam says that the German newspapers report that Dr. Michaelis has tendered his resignation as the Kaiser's representative. The report is unofficial, but is generally believed to be true.

SALONICA.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.

It is reported from Salonica that General Sarrail, in the course of an interview, denied reports that the army intended to withdraw, stating that nothing could be farther from the truth. General Sarrail commands an Allied force, representing seven nations, and holding 340 miles of front, of which the British section extends from Vardar to the sea.

THE ITALIAN SITUATION.

The Washington correspondent of the New York "World" states that a high military experts says the German drive will play havoc with the Italians, and the situation is the most serious for the Allies since the Marne.

Other information inclines to the opinion that the Allies will rush assistance to the Italians in men and big guns.

FOOD ECONOMY.

A campaign has commenced aiming to induce 500,000 women to sign a food economy pledge supporting the Chairman of the Food Board (Mr. Hoover).

It is reported from Washington that President Wilson has made a statement declaring it to be America's duty to provide an adequate supply of food for her soldiers and the civil population, and also the armies of the Allies. He adds: "Citizens should remember that we cannot accomplish the objects of the war without sacrifices—particularly the sacrifice of eating less in our homes and restaurants."

FEELING IN MEXICO.

A report from Mexico City states that General Gonzales is urging that relations should be broken off with Germany. The people are excitedly discussing the prospect.

GERMANY AND BRAZIL.

It is reported from Buenos Ayres that a Brazilian despatch asserts that a message was sent to Count von Luxburg when he was in the Argentine to reveal a German plan for the invasion of Southern Brazil. The papers at Buenos Ayres demand publication of the documents and criticise the Argentine Government's silence.

AMERICA'S BAPTISM.

The correspondent of the New York "Sun" at the American headquarters says that the first detachments of the Americans went over the top of the trenches into No Man's Land. They penetrated the craters and barbed-wire and returned unscathed. The troops are eager for a second trip.

STUPENDOUS FIGURES.

A Washington report states that the Government spent £200,000,000 in October, an increase of 900 per cent. as compared with October of 1916. The expenditure was approximately at the rate of £6000 per minute.

CONSCRIPTION.

SIR WM. IRVINE'S VISIT.

Sir William Irvine has intimated that he hopes to be in Sydney this week for the inaugural public meeting of the Referendum Petition Committee on Thursday evening, at King's Hall, Hunter-street.

At this meeting—primarily a business one for the public formation of the committee—seats will be reserved for members of the new organisation, who should bring their membership cards with them. Provision will be made for enrolment of members at the door of the hall, but it is desired that intending members apply previously (by letter or personally) at the office of the committee, 3 Fitz-Evan-chambers, 28 Castlereagh-street, Sydney.

A NOTE OF WARNING.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Mr. J. W. Leckie, M.P., chairman of the State Recruiting Committee, addressing a meeting to-day, said that he realised to the full the injustice of the present system of voluntary recruiting, but he wanted to sound a note of warning to those who, with the best of intentions, were pushing forward the conscription issue. He was afraid they might defeat the object that was sought—proper reinforcements of the men for the next great spring and summer offensive. In the most favourable circumstances a conscription bill could not be put through Parliament before the end of January. The referendum would take at least two months, and the drafting of the men into camp at least another month. That meant that the men, if conscription were carried, could not be in camp before May, 1918, probably later, and with the necessary six months' training, would not be fit for the firing line before November, 1918. The undoubted effect of a conscription campaign now would be to diminish the flow of voluntary recruiting by at least 50 per cent. during the campaign.

NEW ZEALAND POLITICIAN'S EXCUSE.

WELLINGTON, Monday.

Considerable interest was taken in a case before the Wellington Military Service Board regarding an appeal by P. C. Webb, the member for Grey, against being called up for active service. The appeal apparently was based on the idea that Mr. Webb's presence in the House was essential for the protection of the mining industry of the Dominion. The board said they wanted to have Mr. Webb before them in order to see whether he would engage in an essential industry during recess. Mr. Webb failed to appear, and it was eventually decided that he should go into camp on December 12.

RECRUITING.

CONCESSION TO RAILWAY MEN.

The chairman of the State Recruiting Committee states that it is understood that provision is now being made for the difference between departmental and military pay to be made up to railway employees who enlist in the railways and tramways unit, and that such provision shall apply to discharged men who have been promised reinstatement by the Railway Commissioners. In the case of these latter men they are to be regarded as "railway employees" from the date they would have been reabsorbed in the railway service; that is to say, the discharged men who have been promised reinstatement would, in the ordinary course of events, be taken back in rotation. Thus a man might enlist to-day, and his turn for reinstatement might not take place until, say, January 15, 1918. In such case the departmental pay would begin on January 15. All such men who enlist should make immediate application to the Railway Department for leave of absence, so that, when their turn for reinstatement comes, their cases may be properly dealt with as indicated above.

The foregoing is not to be construed as a definite pledge that the Railway Department will make up the difference in pay in all cases. The Commissioners reserve to themselves the right to adjudicate upon each individual case, and to deal with it on its merits.

FOR BRAVERY.

SHIPWRECK RELIEF SOCIETY.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR ON RECRUITING.

At the fortieth annual meeting of the Royal Shipwreck Relief and Humane Society of N.S.W., which was held in the Town Hall last night, the awards for saving life were presented by Lady Cullen.

During the year, said the annual report, which was read by the chairman, Captain S. G. Green, there had been several disasters on the coast, fortunately unattended by loss of life, but assistance was given in every case to the crews of the vessels when required, the sum of £465 being expended in relief. That included assistance to 16 distressed French passengers on their way to Noumea, whose ship had been torpedoed, and who arrived in Sydney in a destitute condition. The total amount of relief disbursed since the formation of the society was £32,004. The revenue was satisfactory, considering the many calls made upon the public in connection with the war, and the committee had again been able to place a portion of the invested funds in War Loan certificates. The committee had once again to thank the captains and officers of the various steamships and all those who had contributed to the success of the concerts and other entertainments on board the vessels, by which the sum of £323 was raised, the largest items being: R.M.S. Niagara (Captain J. T. Rolls), £143 12s 11d; R.M.S. Makura (Captain J. D. S. Phillips), £93 12s 11d; and the steamer Mataram (Captain C. W. Bibbing), £20 5s 6d.

Sir William Cullen, in moving the adoption of the report, said that those persons who sank ships without warning were not men, but fiends. (Applause.) The same things would happen on this coast from the same hands but for the unsleeping vigilance of the navy. (Applause.) The people of Sydney knew that there were mines not far from where they stood. (Applause.) The Shipwreck Relief Society was established in the interests of a worthy class. (Applause.) It was the seamen who were responsible for stopping the Stockholm Conference. (Applause.) That was a lesson that might well be taken to heart in Australia. (Applause.) It rested with the people to see that their national principles were upheld. (Applause.) It was about time they left off pretending that every man would do his duty when it was pointed out to him. The world was not built that way. The great bulk would sooner or later recognise their duty, but there were men who needed to be taught those habits which led to recognition of duty. It reminded him of the words in "Father O'Flynn" helping the lazy ones up with a stick. Many splendid fellows were still coming forward, but was it to be expected that many of those who were to be seen idling about the big towns were going to recognise their duty because it was pointed out to them eloquently and persuasively? How could anyone expect a young man who had never thought of anything else but self-indulgence to blossom into a patriot and a man of honour? It sounded generous to say that if orators pointed out the path of duty the young men would follow it, but the day would come when it would sound hypocritical. (Applause.) "The war is the one task of men at this moment. (Applause.) One of the grudges I have against old age is that I have not the vigour to do a man's work now—that I cannot be with your sons and my sons." (Applause.) The deeds of heroism which the society was recognising that night were many—ranging from Captain Green down to little boys of 10 and 11. Those were the boys and men who restored one's faith in his country if ever one felt despondent. (Applause.) They were boys and men of the true Anzac breed—(applause)—in whose brave, efficient bodies there was not a lazy bone from head to foot. (Applause.) He asked them to associate those men and boys with the heroes who were doing men's work elsewhere. (Applause.)

Mr. James (Minister for Education), who seconded the motion, apologised for the absence of Mr. Fuller. He said that the two things which struck him about the society were that it recognised pluck, and was itself engaged in the work of humanity. (Applause.) The men of the merchant marine not only faced the perils of the sea, but a good deal of the treachery of those devils who sailed the seas merely for the purpose of rapine and murder. (Applause.) They were not always in the limelight. Heroism had been shown by firemen and others of the merchant marine equal to that shown anywhere. (Applause.) He thought, now that the strike trouble was over, the young men of Australia were gradually beginning to see their duty. (Applause.) If not, it was a matter for our legislators to decide, rather than for the women, young men, and old men of the community. (Applause.) But he hoped that difficulty would not arise. (Applause.)

Alderman R. D. Meagher, M.L.C. (Lord Mayor), mentioned that every year for the last forty years—in the Town Hall for the last quarter of a century—there had been a procession up the aisle of heroes and heroines who had done something for the cause of suffering humanity. He moved:—"That the work of the society deserves the earnest support of the general public."

The resolution was seconded by Captain Glossop, R.N., and carried unanimously.

Naval cadets lined the hall to receive his Excellency and Lady Cullen.

Following were the awards:—Certificates of merit: Gregory White, Arthur J. Catt, Stuart Collen, James B. Meighan, Alfred E. McCarter, Richard England, George S. Stone (aged 15), Frederick Ives, Georges Tribelhorn, Charles E. Bunce, Arthur E. Bonting, Owen H. Smith, John Williams, John A. Gardner (aged 15), Charles W. McHattie, Stanley E. Kennard (aged 13), Ernest E. F. Coates (aged 11), Beatrice M. Nash (aged 11), Private Edward H. Fryer (at the front), Lance-corporal Jack G. Simmons (at the front), Graham A. Young, Leslie O. Jones, William E. McK[illegible]. Bronze medals and certificates of merit: Leslie W. Williams, Albert V. Green, Andrew C. Pemberton, McKenzie G. (Kenneth) Cooper (aged 10), Stephen G. Green, Charles Miller, John E. Gillham, Percival C. Hilliar (aged 9). Silver medals and certificates of merit: Gerald G. Young, Eric H. Haire.

MURRAY FLOOD.

GOULBURN AND MURRAY MEET.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Chairman of the Water Commission stated to-day that, as was expected, there had been a considerable increase in the flood level at Echuca, where the Upper Murray and Goulburn flood waters are beginning to meet. The level was now 32ft 1in, or 3ft 1in above the flooding stage, and was the highest recorded this year. All the other stations had reported a fall. The flood waters were finding their way into the Wakool and Edwards' Rivers, but they had not yet reachd Mildura. A fairly accurate estimate of the progress of the flood in the Murray could now be formed. It seemed that the flood at Albury could be reckoned to take five days to reach Tocumwal, and about nine days to reach Echuca. An exceedingly high river at Mildura might be expected in about ten or 12 days.

SETTLERS' HEAVY LOSSES.

ADELAIDE, Monday.

News was received in Adelaide to-day that the Mypolonga bank on the River Murray had broken. The inundation of the Mypolonga means the temporary loss of another [illegible] acres of reclaimed land, on which were [illegible] settlers. As was the case with the other flooded swamps, all the crops have been destroyed, but it is hoped the pumping plant may be saved. The Mypolonga is the largest of the Murray settlements. The first to yield to the sustained pressure of the flood water was Pampoota, with its 560 acres of reclaimed land; and Wall quickly followed with the flooding of 620 acres, divided among 18 settlers. Mobilong was next, and 40 settlers lost between them 480 acres. The total area of reclaimed land already flooded is [illegible] acres. Only four swamps remain, and the general opinion is that there is little hope of saving any of this land.

EMERGENCY TRAIN SERVICE.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Owing to the washaway of the road and bridges between Wodonga and Albury, a local train service has been established between these places. The empty trains which are usually sent across to Albury from Wodonga to form the up express to Melbourne, are being utilised for passenger purposes.

ALLEGED BREACH OF AWARD.

PERTH, Monday.

The proprietors of the "Daily News" were charged at the City Court to-day with [illegible] breaches of the Australian Journalists' Award in respect of their refusal to pay respective pay and to issue a statement of the grading of the staff. Defendants' counsel applied for an adjournment sine die on the ground that an application to the High Court for a writ of prohibition had not been disposed of. After argument the magistrate granted an adjournment to December 12 to allow the further hearing of the High Court application.

ALLEGED VICTIMISATION.

INQUIRY AT WOLLONGONG.

WOLLONGONG, Monday.

Judge Curlewis sat at the Court-house today to inquire into an alleged victimisation case at the local mines, arising out of the recent strike. Mr. Sweeney, miners' secretary, appeared for the men, and Mr. Morgan for the colliery managers. At the outset it looked as if the proceedings would come to an abrupt termination, as Mr. Sweeney wished his Honor to say that he would give his decision at the conclusion of each case, otherwise the men would withdraw. His Honor said he would do so if they liked, but he would have the names called, and if the men did not respond he would report accordingly to the Government. He said he would give his decision at the earliest possible opportunity to Messrs. Morgan and Sweeney, but that he would not make it in open Court, and they could make it public if they wished.

Mr. Morgan then pointed out the difficulty that faced the managers, as they were not absolved from future actions that might arise out of the statements made by them concerning the men. His Honor recognised the difficulty, as an action for slander might be taken, and suggested that the men individually undertake to sign an undertaking that they would not take further proceedings in regard to statements made in the Court. This was agreed to, and only those cases were taken in which this undertaking was given.

Several cases were heard, and with one exception his Honor reserved his decision, and in that case the result was made known only to Messrs. Sweeney and Morgan.

LITHGOW CASES.

LITHGOW, Monday.

In compliance with the Government's promise, a court opened at Lithgow this morning to inquire into cases where victimisation is alleged at various collieries as a result of the strike. Mr. Justice Edmunds presided. Mr. Bragg represented the Lithgow Coal Association and the Tyldesley colliery, and Mr. R. Pillans, president, appeared for the Western District Coal and Shale Employees' Federation, assisted by Mr. F. Gregory, the general secretary.

Mr. Bragg applied for an adjournment on the ground of short notice. He said that the original list contained about 50 or 60 names, and it would appear that the number was made large to influence the Court to go into the matter.

Mr. Pillans: Your Honor, nothing of the sort has been attempted.

His Honor: We will not go into that. I have a special reference from the Minister in each case, and I can only deal with those cases which have been referred to me, and then report to the Minister.

Mr. Pillans: Then I misunderstand the function of the Court. I understand that an arrangement was come to whereby your Honor would give a decision straight away. That is what is to be done in the north, and I understood it was also to apply to the west and south.

His Honor: I have specific instructions to deal with those cases referred to me and no others at present. I cannot take cognisance of conversations between your representatives and the Minister.

Judge Edmunds then went through a list of men alleged to have been victimised, striking out the names of those who had since secured employment.

As far as was gathered the only collieries now affected are Oakey Park, Zig Zag, Vale of Clwydd, and Tyldesley, embracing about 27 men.

In applying for a fortnight's adjournment, Mr. Bragg said that he had to consult the managers, and the proprietors would also have to discuss the various aspects.

Mr. Pillans: We must oppose the application, on the ground that many of the men out of employment should have been the first to be put on. These men should not be kept waiting a fortnight. Right of seniority has been neglected, and so has preference to members of the union, and men who are not members of the union have been put on.

His Honor: You overlook the fact, Mr. Pillans, that the men destroyed all their rights.

After further discussion, his Honor said that he was only going to hold an inquiry as to whether the Government's instructions had been violated.

Mr. Pillans asked was his Honor prepared to give a decision there without first consulting the Government.

His Honor remarked that if a case was a particularly clear one he might give a decision without consultation with the Government. He granted an adjournment until Wednesday next week.

LABOUR LEGISLATION.

PROPOSED CONFERENCE.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Opinions have been expressed that the conference of Federal and State Ministers to discuss labour legislation and conditions, which has been convened by Mr. Hughes, will have to be held later than was proposed. Mr. Hughes has asked whether November 5 will be convenient for Ministers to attend, but it is thought that this date will not be suitable for some representatives of the other States. One opinion is that the real work of the conference will not be undertaken until the time of the next Premiers' Conference, which may be held about January.

The Premier (Sir Alexander Peacock) proposes to call a conference of employers and employees shortly to discuss industrial conditions.

A STONEWORKERS' DISEASE.

Dr. Arthur, M.L.A., introduced to the Minister for Labour and Industry, Mr. Beeby, yesterday a deputation which asked that workmen engaged in rockchopping, mining, and stonemasonry, who contracted pulmonary fibrosis should be included in the schedules of the Workmen's Compensation Act. The deputation included Mr. Jabez Wright, M.L.A., Mr. P. Brookfield, M.L.A., Alderman A. Vernon (United Labourers' Society), Mr. Jobson (Rockchoppers), and Messrs. J. Worrall and Wiley (Stonemasons).

Dr. Arthur said that the disease was common amongst those who inhaled dust at their work, and resulted in phthisis, causing lingering and painful death.

Mr. Beeby doubted whether the difficulty would be overcome by placing the disease on the schedule. It was provided in the Act that an employer should be responsible for accident and disability occurring to an employee while in his employ. A man found to be suffering from the disease under discussion, however, might have been employed by several men, and the question would arise as to which would be liable for the payment of compensation.

A member of the deputation suggested that the employers in the industries affected should establish a special insurance fund from which claims could be paid.

Mr. Beeby said it seemed appalling, apart from the question of compensation, that human life should be wasted by this disease. If any suggestions could be made he was prepared to get to work at once to have regulations framed with the view of saving the lives of the men.

Mr. Brookfield said that in the mines the speeding-up of men under the contract system was largely responsible for the disease, and day labour should be compulsory. He was aware that the Broken Hill miners decided against day labour, but the State should protect them against themselves. Even where there was wet boring men were so speeded up under the contract system that they had not time to attend to the water which was required to suppress the dust.

Alderman Vernon suggested that there should be a national insurance scheme for the mining, rockchopping, quarrying, and masonry industries, under which employers should pay a percentage on the value of the work undertaken.

Mr. Beeby said that insurance against unemployment and sickness was a wider question which would have to be faced. In regard to the disease under discussion, he was recommending that it should be put on the schedule.

FLYING-LIEUT. C. G. CRANE.

A cablegram has been received by Mr. Walter G. Crane, of Messrs. G. E. MR. BROOKFIELD'S APPEAL.

CONVICTION CONFIRMED.

Judge Backhouse, in the Quarter Sessions Appeal Court yesterday, dealt with the appeal of Percival Brookfield, M.L.A., against a conviction, before Mr. Clarke, S.M., at Sydney on August 17, by which the appellant was ordered to pay a fine of £100, with £6 12s costs, in default six months' imprisonment, on a charge of having by word of mouth made statements likely to prejudice recruiting of his Majesty's forces. He was also ordered to enter into his own recognisance in £200, and find one surety of £200 or two sureties of £100 each, to comply with regulation 28 of the War Precautions Act regulations, or serve six months' imprisonment.

Appellant appeared in person; Mr. Barton, instructed by the Crown Solicitor, appeared for the Crown.

The offence alleged against accused was that in a speech in the Sydney Domain he made certain remarks which were taken down in shorthand by a police constable. The appeal was before his Honor some days ago, and was adjourned to allow a test of the constable's shorthand writing abilities to be made in surroundings similar to those which existed when the appellant made the remarks complained of. Yesterday Mr. Simonds, a court reporter in the Attorney-General's and Justice Department, deposed that a test had been taken in his presence of the speech of a temperance orator in the Domain on the previous day, the constable in question taking a note of portion of the speech. Witness examined the note taken on the previous day, and compared it with that taken when appellant made the alleged statements. Towards the end of the constable's note of the previous day the characters were irregularly formed, so witness said, the note generally was "straggly," whilst the note taken when appellant was alleged to have uttered the words was clearer. The test was not made under quite the same conditions as his Honor had ordered.

His Honor in delivering judgment said there were really only two matters to be considered—it had to be formally proved that the statements were made, and, that being done, it had to be decided whether they were likely to prejudice the recruiting of his Majesty's forces. As to the constable's note, there was no doubt that in a test made in the court he had absolutely failed, therefore the further test in the Domain was ordered. The constable was evidently a nervous, excitable man. It must be borne in mind that the conditions on the previous day were not quite the same as those on the day when the words complained of were used, and it was a great pity that the exact instructions were not carried out. As the witness Simonds had pointed out, there was a difference between the notes taken on the two occasions. There was a doubt about this evidence, though he would not assume that it had to be treated with suspicion. There was, however, corroboration. Appellant himself in his evidence stated what his remarks were, and though the two statements—the constable's and the appellant's—varied, yet there was not so much difference between them after all. Another witness gave evidence as to appellant's remarks, and looking at the three statements of this material part of the speech the constable's evidence was substantially borne out by the appellant himself and the witness. As to the question whether these words were likely to prejudice recruiting, he believed they were, and the appeal would be dismissed, with £3 3s costs.

Appellant asked for time to pay, as he said he was "broke," and would have to raise the money out of his salary. He offered, when asked how much he could pay, to give £10 a month.

His Honor made an order accordingly, and Mr. T. D. Mutch, M.L.A., became surety for the due fulfilment of the order; the first payment to be made in a week.

ATTACK ON A WOMAN.

A story of a sensational attack upon a woman has been reported to the Waverley police.

Mrs. Flora Denmar, of Birrell-street, Waverley, advertised a piano for sale. At about 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon a man called at her home and asked to see the instrument. She showed it to the man in the drawing-room, and after conversing with her for a few minutes he threw her to the ground. Mrs. Denmar struggled to her feet, and the man forced her along the passage into a room at the front of the house. At this stage he released his hold upon her for a moment, and Mrs. Denmar grabbed a razor from the dressing table and slashed at him, inflicting a wound on the cheek. Her assailant drew back and she managed to rush into the yard, where she collapsed.

The man had decamped when Mrs. Denmar recovered. The police are investigating the matter.

CASUALTIES.

At about half-past 10 yesterday morning Edward Lowder, 24, a meter maker, living at Marrickville, was working at the Australian Gaslight Company's premises, in Parker-street, when he inhaled a quantity of coal gas from a blowpipe which he was using. He collapsed and was taken by the Civil Ambulance to Sydney Hospital, where he was admitted by Dr. Larbalestier.

John Callaghan, a slaughterman, of 147 Mullens-street, Rozelle, was crossing Goulburn-street, near Elizabeth-street, early yesterday afternoon, when he was knocked down by a motor lorry. The Civil Ambulance hurried him to Sydney Hospital, where he was admitted, suffering from fractured ribs and shock.

Henry Wilson, a seaman, who was staying at the Sailors' Home, fell down a flight of steps at that address yesterday afternoon. He was taken to Sydney Hospital in the Civil Ambulance and admitted by Dr. Holmes. His skull was fractured.

Albert Arnold, aged 52, a stonemason, living in Underwood-street, Paddington, was found in the yard of a hotel in Oxford-street, Paddington, yesterday in an unconscious condition. He was attended by the Civil Ambulance and removed to Sydney Hospital, where he was admitted, suffering from injuries to his head.

BAKERS AND PRICE-FIXING.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

At the twelfth annual convention of the Federal Master Bakers' Association to-day a protest against price-fixing was recorded. "If the Federal Government," it is stated in the executive annual report, "had desired to give the people cheap bread ways and means were at their disposal by commandeering sufficient wheat for home consumption at an average price. This would have given the people cheap bread, and have saved or used thousands of bushels that have been destroyed." The following vice-presidents were elected:—Messrs. W. White (N.S.W.), J. S. Welch (S.A.), J. H. M'Dougall (Queensland), and Arnold (Tasmania).

MR. C. B. WESTMACOTT.

The Lord Mayor (Alderman R. D. Meagher, M.L.C.), leaving early for another engagement, Mr. J. J. Cohen (Speaker of the Legislative Assembly) presided at a send-off dinner at the Australia Hotel last night to Mr. C. B. Westmacott. After 30 years of active life in Sydney, latterly as general manager here for J. C. Williamson, Ltd., Mr. Westmacott is leaving to take up similar duties with the premier theatrical firm in Melbourne, his successor being Mr. Taylor Darbyshire. In responding to speeches by the chairman, and Messrs. John Sandes, Ben Fuller, Gerald Marr Thompson, Archer, and W. Bailey, Mr. Westmacott gave assurance that his successor would carry on the high traditions of the firm in regard to their obligations as citizens and the [illegible] patriotic movements for a win-the-[illegible]

LANCER OWEN.

PRICE OF MEAT.

BRISBANE, Monday.

The Chief Interstate Commissioner (Mr. Piddington) continued the taking of evidence this morning.

Daniel MacTaggart, senior partner of MacTaggart Bros., stock and station agents, said that in his opinion Queensland prices for meat had been largely determined by agreement arrived at between the meat works and the Government. This had tended to keep down prices by shutting out the other markets of Australia to their disadvantage.

Mr. Piddington suggested that a conference be held this week between the meat companies, retail butchers, stock owners, and agents to devise some system for regulating meat supplies at Enoggera. He would be very pleased to meet the conference unofficially.

The representatives present promised to call such a conference.

George Cole, ex-restaurant keeper, alleged that the retail butcher was charging 2d per lb more than the proclaimed price and 3½d per lb more than the State butcher shop, and that restaurant keepers had raised their prices from 1/ to 1/9.

Mr. Barstow, president of the Master Butchers' Association, said that only in the case of prime joints was a charge made of 2d per lb over the proclaimed price. The average excess charge would not be more than ½d per lb.

Evidence on butter, cheese, and bacon was also taken.

THEFT OF £1070.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Henry Roberts and Andrew Willis appeared at the City Court to-day on a charge of having broken into the house of Horatio Larcher at Fitzroy on October 5, and stolen 650 sovereigns, 348 one pound notes, and other articles to the total value of £1070. The[illegible] were remanded, bail being fixed at £500 in each case.

PUBLIC SERVICE.

FAVOURITISM ALLEGED.

Mr. G. Mason Allard, Royal Commissioner, inquiring into the State Public Service, heard further evidence yesterday morning.

Arthur Alexander Ramsay, chief assistant chemist, Department of Agriculture, was questioned regarding evidence given by Mr. Lindsay that an advertisement for a soil surveyor contained wrong information, and was framed from an improper motive, and referring the Commissioner to witness. It was not, witness said, his function to criticise the drawing of the advertisement; he had nothing to do with it. The inclusion of the qualification of an irrigationist was what was thought strange, and assisted to make many believe that the position was practically ear-marked. He did not think the man for the position would require the qualifications of an irrigationist. The other qualifications stipulated were geology, botany, and chemistry.

The Commissioner: Do you believe that the position was ear-marked for anyone?—That is my impression. He based that impression on what he heard from some of those interested and from the man in the street; he had no direct evidence. Sometimes the man in the street was wrong, but sometimes there was a modicum of truth in what he said. He believed absolutely that the position was ear-marked.

The Commissioner: Was it ever given to that person?—No; I think it is in abeyance.

Who was the person for whom it was intended?—Mr. Farrar, who had been with the Antarctic expedition. He would not express an opinion on Mr. Farrar's qualifications, because he did not know his work. He understood Mr. Farrar had done good work in Egypt, though he had not seen any of the literature concerning it. He understood also that Mr. Farrar was an applicant for the position before the advertisement appeared. He believed Mr. Farrar was favoured because men like Dr. Jensen, who had previously done a lot of work of this character, were not to be picked up every day. His opinion was that Mr. Farrar would have been a good man.

The Commissioner: Was he very friendly with anybody in the department?—Not that I know of.

Why should the position be earmarked for him, unless it was because he was a man of outstanding capacity, attainments, and experience?—I don't know why.

Yet you absolutely believed it was?—Yes, absolutely.

Then there was something else in your mind; let us have it.

Witness said, first of all were the overtures Mr. Farrar had made to do the work for the department after it had been postponed or remained quiet for a time. The Under-Secretary and chief chemist would have most to do with the appointment. Mr. Farrar was not intimately friendly with these, as far as witness knew. The fact that economy was being strongly pressed on the department also operated in their minds.

Mr. Guthrie told witness that Mr. Valder knew of a good man, and they all believed Mr. Farrar was the man, and that there was no need for any of the officers to apply. There was an impression that the officers wanted Mr. Farrar. The appointment might not have been improper, but it would have been an injustice to other officers, for the position would, in seniority, have been graded next to the chief. Witness would have been an applicant, but for the qualification of irrigationist.

Dr. Jensen, he understood, was available, and was a very good man, though at that time he was in the Northern Territory.

In reply to Mr. Loveridge, witness said he thought the applicants would have had a fair deal from a board of investigators composed of Professor Watt, Mr. Guthrie, Mr. Valder, and Mr. Loveridge, with the possible exception that Professor Watt might incline to his own students.

Ewan Mackinnon, microbiologist, Department of Agriculture, said officers of the department were opposed to the appointment of the soil surveyor on principle, as the need for economy had been enforced, there had been no increments, and the salary had been raised from £350 to £500. They could not, moreover, see the need for including irrigation amongst the qualifications. Without that, there were officers in the department capable of filling it. The officers were also opposed to outsiders, such as they regarded Mr. Farrar, inasmuch as the appointment would have affected the seniority of other grades. This introduction of people from outside the service discouraged those in the department. They had an idea that the advertisement was written for the purpose of placing Mr. Farrar in the position, and this was based on knowledge that Mr. Farrar had left his credentials, and stated the conditions on which he was prepared to accept it. Mr. Farrar's qualifications were not questioned; the opposition was based on general principles. The advertisement, they considered, had been specially worded to preclude all officers in the department from obtaining the position. He thought it was a deliberate attempt to exclude all except one man, who was to get the position practically at his own valuation. Mr. Farrar was recommended by Professor David and Messrs. Guthrie and Valder.

The commission adjourned until 10.30 a.m. to-morrow.

AT THE PARTING OF THE WAYS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of last Saturday you reminded our Prime Minister and the public of this solemnly significant utterance on his part six months ago. The public is indebted to the Press for the persistence with which this warning is emphasised. Mr. Hughes and Mr. Cook have both given the clearest indication, short of decisive action, that the principles for which they stood on October 28, 1916, are still firmly held by them. Senator Millen, who obtained the largest vote in New South Wales at the Federal election, is still a member of the executive of the Universal Service League, and until October 28, 1916, preached conscription as a matter of conscience. One must therefore give him credit for being still a conscientious believer in the necessity of conscription.

These eminent public men may fairly be taken as samples of the ability, intelligence, experience, and patriotism of the Commonwealth Government. The public may well ask how comes it then that they halt, as it were, between two opinions. The issue that confronts them is one which affects the very existence of the Commonwealth. They have no doubts as to how that issue should be decided. They believe, for they have said so, that conscription is necessary, and theoretically, at any rate, our Constitution has as its very essence the principle of popular representative government. We need not go outside the history of our own State to find that prior to the introduction of payment to members and machine politics it was regarded as an act of political dishonesty for a Minister to hold office when the policy of the Government did not accord with his political convictions. Sir Edward Carson is one of the most recent instances in the British Parliament of one who chose temporary eclipse rather than be untrue to his convictions, and his return to office and the position of influence which he now occupies in the War Cabinet is a sterling tribute to his integrity of character. I have too high an opinion of the three Commonwealth politicians whose names I have mentioned to give credence to the suggestion that they are subordinating their convictions to their desire to retain office, and I can hardly think that my friends, Colonel Campbell and Mr. F. A. A. Russell, were conscious of such a suggestion when in a recent letter to the Press on the subject of a second referendum they sarcastically scouted the idea of going to the country on the issue of conscription.

The Commonwealth Government is justified in asking, as Mr. Cook did at North Sydney last week, that its hands should be strengthened by believers in conscription endeavouring to educate the public, and I would suggest that those who are prepared to support the Government in its attempt to free itself in a constitutional manner from the unfortunate pledge which was given by the National party at the last Federal elections, should unite in forming an organisation free from political control and any risk of wire-pulling, which would have as its object the adoption of compulsory military service so long as the German menace exists.

Thoughtful observers here and elsewhere have mostly come to the conclusion that a fatal mistake was made when it was decided to adopt the machinery of the referendum for the introduction of conscription. To repeat that mistake, as those who are advocating the referendum petition are desirous of doing, will in all human probability set the seal upon our infamy in the eyes of all free, self-respecting nations. Let us return to the old constitutional paths of popular representative government, and even at the risk of pecuniary loss and temporary political eclipse prove true to our convictions. I am, etc.,

EDWARD J. LOXTON.

WAGES IN AMERICA.

HIGHER THAN IN AUSTRALIA.

During the course of a reply to a deputation yesterday, the Minister for Labour and Industry, Mr. Beeby, quoted some figures showing that the wage standard was higher in America than in Australia. The Minister was asked by representatives of the Master Retailers' Association to consider a long schedule of suggested amendments to the Early Closing and Arbitration Acts. It was complained that the law was not being complied with by what are known as "mixed" shops, and that goods which other shops were compelled to cease selling at an early hour under the early closing law were being sold much later by these shops. The Minister promised full consideration to the suggested amendments of the law.

Referring to a statement that the tendency of wages to increase was continually forcing up the cost of living, Mr. Beeby said the increase in the wage standards of Australia had been inevitable. It had not, however, been nearly so great as in America. In America, the wages paid to skilled workers were about 60 per cent. higher than in Australia, he said, while unskilled workers got about 20 per cent. more. The difference between the two countries was that in America there was no limitation of output. Because of this, the actual labour cost of an article, in proportion to output, was probably no higher than in Australia. The real issue which Australian manufacturers had to face, said Mr. Beeby, was not so much the increase in wages as the reduction of output.

FOR PRISONERS OF WAR.

An enthusiastic meeting was held at the Hotel Australia yesterday afternoon in connection with the performance by Miss Grace Stafford and her company of "Strollers" in aid of Australian prisoners of war. Mrs. George Lee, wife of the commandant, and a member of the Red Cross executive, presided, and among others present were Mrs. MacKinnon, Miss Marjorie Mort, Mrs. Blain, Mrs. J. Ashton, Mesdames Fender, McPhail, Burrell, Lewis Thomas, Harris, Miss J. Fitzhardinge, and Mr. and Mrs. Hyslop, of Ashfield, who have four sons at the war—one of them being a prisoner of war. It was noticeable that almost every person at the meeting had some relation a prisoner of war.

During the afternoon Miss Dora d'Amele handed in £129 collected for the Red Cross Nurses' Comforts Fund, and it was stated that the expenditure for New South Wales prisoners of war by the Red Cross amounts to £80,000 a year, whilst for all Australia it is in the neighbourhood of £200,000.

The plan for the prisoners of war performance on November 6 is open at Paling's. Tickets are moderately priced, and there is no extra charge for booking.

15 YEARS' IMPRISONMENT.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

In the Criminal Court to-day the jury found Robert Bennett and Angus Murray guilty of having robbed, while armed with a rifle, the teller of the English, Scottish, and Australian Bank at Middle Park, on September 18, of £534 11s. Each man was sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment, and declared an habitual criminal. Bennett said that his age was 42 years, and that he was an engineer. He admitted that at Perth he received a sentence of imprisonment for life and flogging for an offence against a woman, and had also been sentenced in Sydney on charges of conspiracy. Murray also admitted previous convictions.

WOUNDED FIVE TIMES.

Mr. William Bottom, builder of Cooma, has received word that his youngest son, Corporal Leslie Bottom, has been reported wounded. This is the fifth occasion that he has been wounded—twice at Gallipoli, and three times in France.

SEX TEACHING.

Yesterday afternoon St. James's Hall, Phillip-street, was crowded with members of the Women's Reform League, to hear an address by the Bishop of Bathurst (Dr. Long) on the subject of "Essential Factors in Sex Teaching." The acting president of the league, Mrs. Stanhope Swift, was in the chair.

The speaker, who was in khaki, said the subject of sex training was one which had been forced upon the people, and they should be prepared to face the facts intelligently. No one could shut his or her eyes to the vast importance of the problem. There were two sides of the question to be considered—the physical and the spiritual. The urgency of the physical problem should be brought home to the people, but he had no time to deal with any of the worst aspects of the case. The growth of the present evil in our midst was due to the slackening of parental control and the lessening of religion. Having exhaustively read reports on the subject of the sex evil he was quite competent to realise the appalling weight of misery which had fallen and was falling upon innocent people. The speaker then asked the question: "What are women going to do about it?" Many might think it right to stand aside and allow the evil to go on unchecked, but if this was not a woman's problem, what was? "What is a problem for one woman is a problem for all women." The Bishop said emphatically: Mother love should bind women together in a crusade to give the children a chance in life. The physical consequences of evil living were so dire that no agency should be neglected to endeavour to raise the moral standard. Homelife and early training were two essentials, and children should be taught physical facts almost from infancy. Three factors were necessary to success—the right teacher, the right teaching, and the right time. It was better to be too early than half an hour too late. The best teacher was the mother.

OPENING OF TERM.

The final Supreme Term of the present year was opened yesterday, the Full Court consisting of Mr. Justice Pring, Mr. Justice Sly, and Mr. Justice Gordon. Mr. C. R. Walsh, in his capacity of sheriff, took his seat with their Honors for the first time, and among the barristers present were Messrs. J. Garland, K.C. (Solicitor-General), A. G. Ralston, K.C., A. Knox, K.C., S. Ernest Lamb, K.C., J. L. Campbell, K.C., A. P. Canaway, K.C., W. Hugh Mocatta, E. J. Bayly Macarthur, J. P. Sheridan, Alec. Thomson, A. R. J. Watt, J. A. Ferguson, J. Young, and W. J. Curtis. As the preliminary proceedings were purely formal, the general public was only nominally represented, and their Honors, after getting rid of their ceremonial gowns and full-bottomed wigs, settled down to the business of the day.

OVERCROWDED TRAINS.

Mr. Richardson Clark, the Coroner at Parramatta, held an inquest yesterday at Canterbury on the death of an old servant of Anthony Hordern and Sons, who was idle owing to the carters' strike. One morning last week he was on his way to work, and at Lakemba, where he lived, he got on the train as it came into the station and fell, with the result that his skull was crushed. It appeared from the evidence of Constable Herbert, who lives at Lakemba, and who saw the accident, that the train in question is always crowded, and passengers make a practice of jumping on before it stops, so as to make sure of a seat. The railway officials, however, denied that there was not sufficient room, but the Coroner, while acquitting the officials of any blame, said he was not satisfied as to the accommodation for the public, and asked the Commissioners to make special observation of the train.

WORK OF THE RANDWICK ASYLUM.

Mr. David Storey, Acting Minister for Public Health, who was president of the board of directors of the Randwick Asylum at the time of the requisitioning of the buildings and lands by the Federal authorities for military hospital purposes, yesterday handed to each member of the board a souvenir of the splendid work done by the directors in days gone by. This was a copy of the "History of the Institution," written by the superintendent, Mr. Joseph Coulter, who was also present, extending over a period of 63 years. The "history" was very much appreciated, and many eulogistic references were made to the solid service rendered to the State by the "Society for the Relief of Destitute Children."

MOTOR CAR CAPSIZES.

GLEN INNES, Monday.

A motor car driven by Miss Bloxsome, and containing three other passengers, skidded and overturned on the Inverell-road, about five miles from Glen Innes, on Saturday afternoon. The occupants were thrown out, and Miss Chubby Bloxsome, a sister of the driver, had a rib broken; but the others escaped with bruises and minor cuts.

A village fair will be held at Silver-street, Marrickville, between the post-office and the Bank of Australia, on Saturday next, in aid of the Marrickville Cottage Hospital.

BOWLS.

A few matches were played on Saturday, as the majority of the greens are still being top-dressed. The rain also interfered with the play. North Sydney green was reopened. The president of the association, Mr. Spence, took over a team of seven rinks and won the match by 53 points.

In the club games Petersham beat Cheltenham and Killara; St. George beat Kuring-gai, Hunter's Hill beat Drummoyne, Chatswood beat South Ashfield, Victoria Park beat Gladstone Park. City Club has a rink competition for a trophy given by the president, Mr. M. Moran, and a presentation was made to Mr. Butler, the club secretary. Marrickville beat Randwick in a home and home match. Victoria Park beat Ryde, and Warringah beat Marrickville.

ATHLETICS.

To-morrow at the Sydney Grammar School ground, Rushcutter Bay, the fifth annual sports meeting in connection with the New South Wales Institution for the Deaf and Blind will be held. The programme includes 100 championships for deaf boys and girls. Mr. A. James, Minister for Education, will distribute the prizes.

RELIEF OF DISTRESS.

At the Stadium last night an entertainment was given in aid of the Lord Mayor's Distress Relief Fund, and it was fairly well attended. The hon. organiser, Mr. R. L. Baker, with the assistance of Mr. R. E. Edwards, who arranged the programme, spared no effort to make the entertainment a success. Exhibitions of boxing and trick cycling were given, together with a number of vaudeville turns. Among those assisting were Miss Doris Pearl and Miss Merrison, the Driscoll Boys, Keldine and Speed, A. Hensley and Miss Bates, John Fennell, the three Rennaux, Griffin Brothers, National Trio, Fred. Baker and Jack Hilt, Jim Bell, D. Osborn, Tom O'Malley, and Frank Morgan, and Wally Weekes and Coy.

THE GOLL RECITALS.

Mr. Edward Goll's visit to this city has given an impetus to the musical interest of the fast-closing season, and it would be well if some other leading artists resident in Melbourne occasionally followed his example. Last night the distinguished pianist gave a final recital at the Conservatorium, opening with an interpretation of the "Chromatic Fantasia," in which the rolling grandeur of Bach's music at every climax was emphasised with effective power. A number which especially delighted the audience was "The Harmonious Blacksmith," a piece composed by Handel exactly 200 years ago whilst at the village of Whitchurch, near Edgware, in the graveyard of which stands the tomb of William Powell, the blacksmith who "hammered out" the melody at his forge near by. The pianist restored to this hackneyed composition all its original charm by a precision and fluency such as only a master can achieve. A captivating example of a lively rustic dance termed in English a "rigadoon" was furnished in the "Rigaudon de Dardanus," described on the programme by "J. K. Rameaux." Jean Philippe Rameau, the great French composer, wrote a five-act opera, "Dardanus," in 1739, and is probably the musician referred to. Last night's programme was, indeed, full of tuneful music, as it included Haydn's Andante with Variations (Op. 46), a Mozart "Fantasie," "Variations and Fugue" (Handel Brahms), and a choice group of Chopin pieces. In this way the recital was thoroughly appreciated, and the departing artist enjoyed an enthusiastic send-off, which closed with a double encore.

At the Conservatorium to-night there will be a free students' concert, the director's lecture-concert will take place to-morrow, the Kennedys' second concert is due on Thursday, and the Conservatorium orchestral matinee on Saturday.

AMUSEMENTS.

MISS RUBY DAVIES'S CO. AT BONDI.

Miss Ruby Davies produced the pantomime "Babes in the Wood" before a crowded audience at the Coronation Hall, Bondi Junction, on Saturday night, when her own songs as Robin Hood and the tuneful duet, "Valley of Morn," with Maid Marion (Miss Irene De Lorme), were amongst the features in the prettily-staged piece, in which Mr. Robert Reid was successful as the Dame. Nearly three-score of well-trained adult and juvenile pupils from Miss Davies's dancing and dramatic school assisted, and encores were frequent. Mrs. [illegible] and Mr. McNaughton directed the music, and Mr. Sidney O. Smith the stage.

PRESS CLUB CONCERT.

There was a good attendance of members, their wives, and friends at the Press Club on Saturday evening, when a smoke social was held. Contributors to an excellent programme were the Misses Ella Airlie, [illegible], Ella Caspers, Cecilia Mason, Leah Meyers, Vera Sullivan, May Summerbelle, Lionel Vange (Tivoli), and Messrs. Archer and Rex. [illegible], E. Butler (lightning sketches), Albert [illegible], Trevor Jones, Charles Smythe, and Russell Woodhouse. The accompanists were Mdlle. [illegible], Miss Jean Browne, Messrs. Will Caspers, Louis Grist, and E. Woolgate.

MATINEE IN AID OF HOSPICE FOR THE DYING.

The matinee at the Tivoli in aid of the funds of the Hospice for the Dying will be held this afternoon. The leading artists in Sydney will give their services gratis. The box plans at the Tivoli and Nicholson's are practically full. Good seats at a low figure may, however, be obtained in the gallery. Various articles given to the fund will be auctioned.

WAR CHEST DAY.

The book of original sketches presented by the Sydney Sketch Club to be raffled for War Chest funds is now on view at Messrs. Angus and Robertson's premises.

FINANCIAL.

ST. JOSEPH'S INVESTMENT.

The balance of profit and loss account of the above company for the year ended September 30 was £10,507, against £10,297 during the previous twelve months. Of this £4764 will be absorbed by the dividend, £5400 carried to reserve fund, and £343 carried forward, against £207 brought into the account.

WOOL APPRAISEMENTS.

The Central Wool Committee has made arrangements to commence wool appraisements in Sydney on November 5, continuing until November 13. 50,000 bales will be offered at the series. There is a possibility of a further two or three sales being held before Christmas. Catalogues totalling 50,000 bales will be offered in Brisbane towards the end of the month.

E. S. AND A. BANK.

The gross profits of the above institution, according to a cable received by the Sydney manager, for the year ended June 30 amounted to £390,783, and the net profit to £110,418, and after transferring £15,000 to the reserve fund there remains £95,418. A dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum absorbs £43,155. An additional £25,000 is added to reserve, making it £500,000, a sum of £14,385 is devoted to purchase and cancellation of deferred inscribed deposit stock, £2500 is added to the officers' guarantee and provident fund, leaving £378, which, with £33,844 brought forward, makes £34,262 to be carried forward. The profit compares with £110,655 in 1916 and £109,186 in 1915.

THE LIBERTY LOAN.

DELAYED WOOL APPRAISEMENTS.

Mr. Geo. L. Hobson writes:—

Sir,—I have been waiting to see in your paper either some word of the date of wool appraisement or else that the date of closing of the War Loan had been extended. Apparently the closing of the War Loan is not to be extended to fit in with wool sales. Is not this a peculiar way of doing business on the part of whoever is responsible? There must be a great number of people in this district who will not be able to put any money into the loan on account of their wool being tied up all this time. What spare cash I had, I put into the February loan, and now, through the delay of the first appraisement, I have had to borrow money at 6 per cent. to carry on, so the loan will get nothing from me, and there must be hundreds more similarly situated.

Yes; but there are plenty of war loans to follow this one, so that no one with money coming in need despair.

YIELD OF LOANS.

"Amateur Actuary" writes:—

Sir,—The figures given by your correspondent in to-day's issue are, as you say, very interesting. For the encouragement of small investors, or those who can only pay by instalments, it should be pointed out that they are much better off by receiving interest amounting to £3/5/ on June 15, 1918, than those who pay in full and receive £4/19/ on same date for each £100 subscribed. That is to say, for the 225 days under the instalment system, the interest equals £5/2/8 per cent., as against £8/15/0 per cent. for cash down.

WAR PROFITS AND LOAN.

Mr. Geo. Morton writes:—

Sir,—In your comment subjoined to the portion of my letter, published in your issue on Wednesday last, you say that I do not explain how the Treasurer would be able to pay interest on war loans, if, instead of receiving revenue, he merely reduced the public debt. I certainly did not intend to convey the suggestion that there was to be any reduction of the public debt by the proposal contained in my letter—quite the contrary. The payment of interest and sinking fund must come from taxation. How that particular burden should be distributed is a detail; but, assuming that a person had the choice of paying taxation in a new form, to the amount of £1000, or of lending the Government (compulsorily) a like sum on a war bond, would he not readily accept the latter form, even if he were personally taxed the amount required to pay interest and sinking fund?

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

A fair business was done in metal lines yesterday. Little distributing business was done in fencing wires, probably on account of prices continuing high. No. 8 black was selling at £59, but there was no No. 10 obtainable. There is, however, word of a little being on the water. No. 8 galvanised was selling at £62, and for No. 10 galvanised £66 was asked. This gauge was very scarce, and was in some favour for hay binding, on account of the same gauge black being unobtainable, though on the Hunter farmers prefer No. 8 black. Between houses these rates would be shaded a little. A little wire netting was procurable, 42 x 1½ x 17A being quoted at £85 a mile, and 42 x 1½ x 18 being quoted at £65. Barbed wire was extremely scarce. Fourteen gauge sold at £95. Kelly's axes were advanced to 74/ per dozen for light weights, and 75/ for heavy weights. Handles were distributing at 20/. Stocks of sheep shears were extremely slow, I.X.L. selling at 26/, and Lane's wire spring at 25/. Nails were steady at 25 per cent. on list, though in some quarters a net price was asked equal to this rate. Roofing screws were irregular, the lowest quotation being 100/ per cwt. Iron wood screws and brass screws were also irregular, the lowest asking price being I.W. screws 20 per cent. on list, and brass screws 30 per cent. on list. Tinned steel sheets were worth £110 per ton, but were very difficult to obtain. Other heavy lines were without alteration.

Australian-made rope had a substantial advance yesterday. No. 1 Manila was put up to 144/ a cwt, an advance of 20/; No. 2 to 97/, an advance of 7/. Flax first to 37/, an advance of 13/, and flax second to 52/, an advance of 2/. Higher cost of raw material was the cause.

The jute market was quiet, because holders had little to sell. Woolpacks were the only line in which parcels of any size were procurable, and business was done at 4/2. For small lots holders asked 4/3. Branbags were sold at 8/9 net to rails. Cornsacks were quoted at 9/6 to storekeepers and 10/ to users, net to rails. So far as may be judged from private cables about one-third of the September shipments have been shut out.

Alby carbide was almost unprocurable, and 75/ a cwt was asked. For Japanese 62/ per 100lb drum, or in 50lb tins, two tins to a case, 65/ per 100lb was asked.

HOMEBUSH STOCK SALES.

SHEEP.

MARKET UNALTERED.

There was a penning yesterday of 27,391 sheep—over 3000 less than was drawn for—but the supply proved quite equal to the demand, except for heavy sheep with good woolly skins, which were bought up readily for the export trade at prices very firm on last day's quotations. The sheep, which came from 97 owners scattered throughout the State, were a well assorted lot, embracing all classes, from the heavy sheep to the plain sorts. There was a good sprinkling of old shorn ewes, and yet they sold fairly well, but with the exception of prime heavy sheep, which were dearer than last day, the market was much at Thursday's rates, with an occasional firmness here and there. The attendance of all branches of the trade was good, including store buyers, who operated freely. The pool operated for the metropolitan area at the early sales simply to secure a number of sheep to complete the day's killing; but as soon as this was accomplished all metropolitan buyers were free to buy for themselves, and their presence had a steadying effect on the market. A line of 277 merino wethers, from G. Davidson, of Stockinbingal, sold to 47/10, and averaged 47/. A consignment of 140 crossbred wethers, from Thomas Fitzpatrick, of Carcoar, realised to 46/, and averaged 40/10.

Among the principal sales were the following:—From T. P. Grant, of Cowra, crossbred wethers to 36/1; from Thomas Fitzpatrick, of Carcoar, 140 crossbred wethers to 46/, avg. 40/10; from J. CATTLE.

ANOTHER DEAR MARKET.

There was a yarding of 947 cattle. It was rather a small market to meet all requirements, and from the start it was evident that prices would remain firm on last day's advanced rates. This proved to be the case from the outset. Forty-one owners were represented in the consignments. There was one draft of 150, but mostly the cattle were in lots of from 10 to 50. They were of excellent quality, and included a few cattle from Queensland, but mostly from the northern and north-western portions of New South Wales. There was a large attendance of buyers, all sections of the trade being fully represented. Competition was keen from the outset, and the market remained buoyant to the close. Prices were from 20/ to 30/, and in places to 40/, dearer than the advanced rates of Thursday last. A large consignment of 147 bullocks from A. T. Creswick, of Hay, realised to £26/3/, and averaged £23/8/. The tops of several drafts reached to over £30; one line of eight bullocks, in the name of F. J. Richards, which came from the southern districts, sold to £32/16/, and averaged £31/11/3. Another line of 72 bullocks, in the name of Robertson and Co., and trucked at Bourke, also made to £30, and averaged £26/8/11. A line of bullocks forwarded in the name of the S.A.I. Company, and trucked at Matong, realised to £31, and averaged £27/15/.

Among the principal sales were the following:—From A. W. Whitney, of Woodstock, 12 bullocks to £29/16/, avg £27/2/8, and 14 cows to £25/8/, avg £20/9/5; from James M'Kenzie, Western district, 24 bullocks to £29/16/, avg £25/11/; from executors of William Hay, of Mullengudgery, 19 bullocks to £26/17/6, avg £25/18/; from J. P. Carrigan and Sons, of Moree, 50 bullocks to £24/2/, avg £22/3/; from Robertson and Co., Bourke, 33 cows to £21/16/, avg £17/17/, and 19 steers to £22/16/, avg £22/10/6; from C. G. Tyers, of Narromine, 2 bullocks at £27/1/, and cows and heifers to £21/12/6; from F. J. Richards, of southern districts, 8 bullocks to £32/16/, avg £31/11/3; from H. G. 'AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

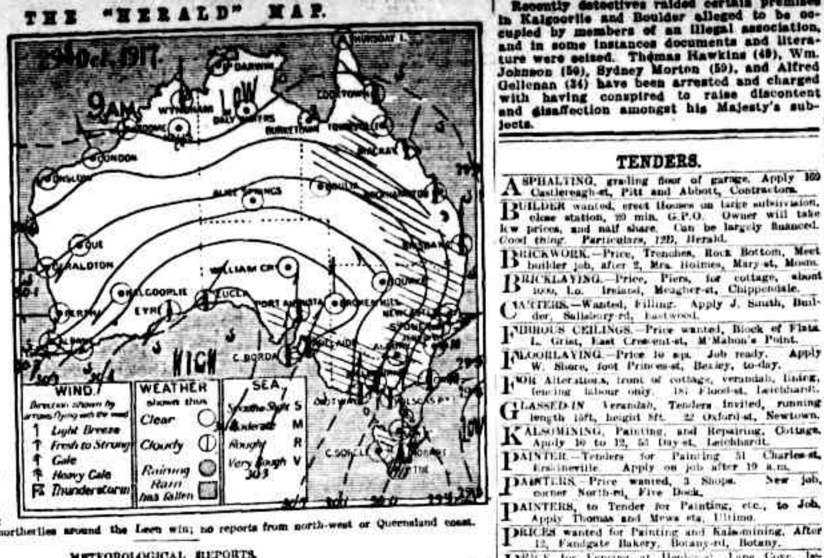
THE "HERALD" MAP.



The Antarctic disturbance which was responsible for scattered rain and thunderstorms over the central and eastern districts had by Monday morning left the mainland and was operating over the Tasman Sea, the centre of the disturbance being situated to the south-west of the Bluff, New Zealand. The high pressure was on Monday morning travelling at about the normal rate, having moved eastward close on 1000 miles during the 48 hours ended at 9 a.m. on Monday. This anti-cyclone, which was fairly energetic, and belonged more to the winter type than the present season, was on Monday morning centred over the Bight, where the highest readings reached 30.40 inches. A monsoonal depression was on Monday morning situated over the Coral Sea, and extended across the northern part of the continent to Broome. Fine and cool weather, with squally southerly winds, may be expected generally for the present, but later showers may be looked for along the coast.

Ocean Forecast.—Squally southerlies between Hobart and Brisbane; freshening northerlies around the Leeuwin; no reports from north-west or Queensland coast.

MINING.

A QUIET OPENING.

With the characteristic quietness accompanying the normal war-time Monday the mining section of the Sydney Stock Exchange commenced operations for another week. Barrier stocks lacked support until the day was well advanced. Norths recovered /3 to 56/3 on terms, but British, though a shade firmer early, eased to 35/6, and "Hills" were sold forward at slight concessions.

The Westonian gold enterprises recovered from the weakness displayed at the week-end. Deeps opened higher at 28/9, but, in sympathy with the southern exchanges, receded to 28/2½ near closing time. Consols hardened to 20/4½, but reacted to 20/ in company with Deeps. Centrals were quoted substantially firmer, but other gold enterprises were neglected. Malayan tin concerns ruled firm. Trong advanced to 10/10, and Kampong and Larut provided exchange at solid figures. Towards evening some dealing occurred in Mammoth Molybdenite, which figured at about recent prices.
